SUIT HITS AT FILM TRUST

Government Begins Attack on Moving Picture Magnates.

CHARGE COMBINE FOR A MONOPOLY

Allege Illegal Affiliation to Control Output and Kill Competition.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 16.—The federal government attacked the so-called moving picture trust in a civil suit filed here today for the dissolution of the Motion Picture Patents company and the General Film company. Ten prominent moving picture film concerns are accused of combining to monopolize the business, even to the extent of increasing or decreasing the number of motion picture theaters, in which they have no proprietary interest.

The following corporations and individuals, who are officers or directors, are named by defendants: Motion Picture Patents company, General Film company, Biograph company, Thomas A. Edson, incorpuorated; Essany company, the Kalem company, incorporated; George Klein, Lubin Manufacturing company, Melies' Manufacturing company, Pathe-Freers, the Selig Polyscope company, the Vitagraph company, of America; Armat Moving Picture company, Frank L. Dyer, Henry N. Marvin, J. J. Kennedy, William Pelzer, Samuel Long, J. A. Berst, Siegmund Lubin, Gaston Melies, Albert E. Smith, George K. Speer and W. N. Selig.

Charges Plot to Monopolize.

Each of the defendants is alleged to have overstepped the bounds of the lawful monopoly granted by their patents and the petition asks that several complicated license restrictions, tying patents together, be ordered cancelled. The government charges unreasonable and oppressive restraints and conditions have been arbitrarily imposed upon the manufacturers and leasing of films and machines, deriving the public of the advantages of competition, especially the competition of foreign films, the importation of which is alleged to be restricted.

IN LONG FLIGHT WITH PASSENGER

Philadelphia Law Student, 19, Covers 70 Miles to Atlantic City.

AT 50 MILES AN HOUR

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 16.—Grover C. Bergtoll, 19 years old, law student at the University of Pennsylvania, and a member of a wealthy Philadelphia family accomplished an aeroplane flight with a passenger from Philadelphia to Atlantic City early today, landing at the lower end of the resort without mishap. His passenger was Charles Krouse, a mechanician.

Bergtoll ascended near Llanerich, about five miles west of Philadelphia, at 5:40 o'clock and maintaining an average speed of about fifty miles an hour landed here at 7:05 o'clock. He reached his highest altitude over Berlin, N. J., thirty miles from here, attaining a height of 7,000 feet. The distance was about seventy miles.

CONGRESS IS VERY UNEASY

Taft's Latest Veto Has Put Legislative Matters Up in the Air.

HOUSE PREPARES TO TRY NEW TACK

May Drop Civil Service Tenure and Again Send Bill to President.

SENATE FAILS TO PASS STEEL BILL OVER VETO.

Washington, Aug. 16.—An attempt to pass the steel tariff revision bill over the president's veto led by Senator Simmons, was lost today, 39 to 32. The house had passed it over Mr. Taft's disapproval.

The democrats received no support from the progressive republicans. Senators Clapp, ..urks, Poindexter and LaFollette withheld their votes, Senator LaFollette explaining that he had not been present when the bill passed and was not familiar with its provisions.

Mr. LaFollette then moved to pass the wool tariff bill over the president's veto.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Congress is uneasy over the situation created by President Taft's veto of the legislative-executive-judicial appropriation bill.

The house failing to pass the measure over the president's veto yesterday is preparing to drop the civil service seven year tenure provision, and again force the president to pass on the abolishment of the commerce court. A canvass of the senate was begun today to develop the attitude of the majority of that body. While a bill to abolish the commerce court probably would be approved by the senate, members of that body dislike to again attach the provision to an appropriation bill and call down another veto that might prolong the session. Both houses are being canvassed to find out whether the bill could be passed over a veto if it contained only the commerce court provision. Attempts are being made to dispose of business so that adjournment may be reached next Thursday; but the appropriation bills are a stumbling block. The conference over the postal bill began today but the general deficiency bill has not yet been taken up in the senate and the army bill has not yet entered conference. The sundry civil, Indian and naval bills are still in conference.

Will Sign Pension Bill.

President Taft expects to sign the $160,000,000 pension appropriation bill today and thousands of veterans and their dependents who have been practically without their usual government aid for many weeks will cash their

TAMA JIM WILSON IS 77 YEARS OLD

Veteran Secretary of Agriculture Enjoys Birthday Occasion.

HAS BROKEN RECORD

Washington, Aug. 16.—"Tama Jim" Wilson, secretary of agriculture and the oldest man in President Taft's cabinet, today enjoyed his seventy-seventh birthday. Secretary Wilson said he was looking forward to quitting public life on March 5 next, so that he might go home among his grandchildren, "don his overalls and move around among the common people."

Mr. Wilson has exceeded by four years the record for long service in the cabinet and under his regime the scope of the department of agriculture has been widely extended.

A New Jersey farmer, rhyming the praises of Wilson and incidentally making a plea for more farmers' bulletins, takes to the muse in this fashion:

Jim Wilson is the fellow with the knowledge up his sleeve,
Because he tells us many things we simply must believe,
Of how to bud a bank roll on a peach tree that has died,
And pollonizing butter as a nurse crop on the side.
He issues books and pamphlets telling just how it is done,
But when I write for five or six, by gosh, I just get one.

A bundle of literature went out to the Jersey man on the first mail with a modest effort from Editor James A. Arnold:

Our secretary's passed the word
That a man who writes like you,
Must really want our bulletins;
So we send you quite a few.

MOOSE TO BUILD NEW LODGE HOME

Will Close Deal Tomorrow for Purchasing Paul Property.

TO FORM A COMPANY

By a deal which will be consummated tomorrow, the Fort Wayne lodge of Moose will purchase the Paul property at the northeast corner of Jefferson and Harrison streets, and will later erect a new home for the lodge, which will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000. Architect R. M. Snyder has been engaged to draw plans for the new building.

The lodge already has a large sum of money pledged toward the new home, and within the next two weeks a company will be incorporated under the laws of the state, and all members of the lodge will be given an opportunity to take as much stock as they desire. The Moose has a three years lease on the quarters now occupied in the Lau block.

The lot on which the new home will be built is 60by150 feet in dimensions. It will be a three story structure. The first floor will be used as business rooms, the second as the social rooms of the lodge, and the third floor will be devoted exclusively to the lodge work.

WILSON WILLING TO BE EXPLICIT

Easy Job Says Nominee in Retort to Roosevelt Observation.

MAY SPEAK IN MAINE

Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 16.—"It has always been found to be a very easy job to make me be explicit," remarked Gov. Woodrow Wilson today, when his attention was called to reports from Oyster Bay that Col. Roosevelt in his New England speeches would call upon the democratic nominee to be more specific in his interpretation of the democratic platform. The governor admitted today that "strong pressure" was being brought to bear upon him to have him speak in Maine before the gubernatorial elections there on Sept. 9.

The governor announced that he expected the western headquarters at Chicago to be opened at once. Joseph E. Davies, of the national committee, is due on Monday to open the Chicago headquarters. It is the intention of Mr. Davis then to make a western tour through St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco, Seattle and other points to determine the best places for branch headquarters.

WELL SUPPLIED WITH HUSBANDS

Gary Man Turns Up as No. 2 at Trial of Wife on Murder Charge.

CAUSES A SENSATION

Cincinnati, Aug. 16.—A second husband was produced by the prosecution this morning in the trial of Mrs. Mathilda Radloff, 22, charged with killing her husband, Charles, in a lonely spot in a suburb near their old trysting place.

He was Andrew Stocker, of Gary, Ind., and he testified that he had married Mrs. Radloff in Chicago on March 4. He then presented a wedding certificate showing that Judge Magan, of Cook county, had married Miss Mathilda Weston and Andrew Stocker, both of Gary, on that date.

The testimony of Stocker caused a sensation in the crowded court room. His presence had been kept a secret.

Stocker declared that he had met Mrs. Radloff at the home of her sister, in Gary, last March and that after they were married they lived at the home of his wife's sister in Gary until Mrs. Radloff's arrest there in April. The shooting of Charles Radloff took place the night of April 4. Mrs. Radloff's plea is self defense.

DIG UP BONES OF MASTODON

Skeleton of Monster Animal is Uncovered on S. R. Alden Farm.

SPOT IS FORMER INDIAN RESERVE

One Tooth of Prehistoric Giant Weighs Total of 5½ Pounds.

Buried scarcely three feet below the surface of the ground, the bones of some mammoth animal were uncovered Thursday on the farm of Judge R. S. Alden, a few miles south of the city, by Henry Palmer and Martin Greider, workmen engaged in clearing the land. The bones are in an advanced stage of decay, but show that at one time they formed the skeleton of some animal, now extinct, and greatly resembling the mastodon.

Among other portions of the decayed frame already uncovered is a set of jawbones of gigantic size and containing two teeth which compare identically with the teeth of a mastodon, as described in natural histories. One of the teeth after having been extracted from the bone was placed on a pair of scales by Judge Alden, and the weight registered was five and one-half pounds. The larger tooth was left in the bone.

A number of broken portions of different bones have been unearthed by the two workmen and among them is what is supposed to be a portion of one of the animal's limbs. This bone alone, in its decayed state, is larger than the bones in the forelimb of a common species of the elephant, and all other sections uncovered are much larger than bones found in an ordinary sized pachyderm. A huge tusk, with sections of the bones of the head still clinging to it, has also been brought to the surface.

Judge Alden believes that the bones uncovered on his farm are the remains of a mastodon, and this afternoon the decayed portions were photographed and the pictures, with a description of the find, will be forwarded at once to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. If it is found that the bones are those of some animal, rare in its time and in this latitude, they will probably be presented to the national museum.

Many years ago, according to Judge Alden, the bones of the mastodon were uncovered a few miles north of Fort Wayne.

Was Old Reservation.

The farm on which the bones were located is four miles south of the city and was known as lot No. 8 in the Richardville Indian reserve. Years ago the land was in possession of the Godfreys. Mr. Alden purchased the farm three years ago. The field in which the bones were uncovered had lost a foot or more of its surface a few years ago when

DEMOCRATS TO STAY IN LINE

Republican Chairman Says They Will Not Join Third Party.

HOUK HAS BEEN LOOKING IT UP

Former Roosevelt Republicans Flock Back to Taft, He Also Declares.

Stating that Colonel D. N. Foster is mistaken in assuming that democrats will flock to the progressive party if organized in Allen county, Amos E. Houk, chairman of the county republican central committee, says that during his canvas of the territory he finds the democrats very much pleased with their ticket and that they are not at all likely to abandon such promising chances ahead for them to become associated with the new party.

"Mr. Foster has not made as thorough a search through the county as I have," declares Mr. Houk. "The progressives, if they organize a new county ticket, will not get many democrats, if any. The democrats stand united and are satisfied with their ticket."

The above, coming from one of the leading republicans of the county, is considered by democratic leaders as the most convincing evidence of a democratic victory in November. The fact is, according to one democratic leader, Colonel Foster's view of democrats flocking to the new party has never been seriously considered. It is the belief that Mr. Foster is handing out the democratic talk simply as a "feeler," turned loose to create additional enthusiasm among the ranks of the progressives.

"We have had considerable talk recently of Taft republicans deserting the party," continued Mr. Houk. "I think

EXPECT TO MAKE ARRESTS AT PERU

Police Think Wallace Had Been Murdered Before Train Struck Him.

ROBBERY IS THEORY

Peru, Ind., Aug. 16.—The police of this city are working on the theory that William Wallace's head was severed from his body by a Chesapeake and Ohio passenger train after he had been murdered and robbed.

Wallace was a saloonkeeper at Indianapolis. He left home Monday night, telling his wife that he expected to go to Milwaukee. He had $294 and a gold watch with him, but when his body was found near here no valuable of any kind were found. Wallace's hat and shoes were missing.

The relatives believe that the man was followed to Peru and murdered for his money; that after Wallace was dead the murderers placed the body across the railroad track with the hope that a train would mangle it beyond recognition. The police are working on some clews and arrests may follow. The body of Wallace was taken to Seymour for burial.

That is—I visited the study of the Rev. William J. Dalton, at his church in this city—the Church of the Annunciation.

Dollars and cents cut no figure whatever in Father Dalton's Cupid establishment and that's one important reason why it is the most remarkable matrimonial bureau in America.

Dr. Dalton was peeking at me over a huge stack of letters when I stepped inside the door. The envelopes bore

AMERICAN CITY, FEARFULLY CONGESTED BY NATURE, PUNCHING HOLE THROUGH BIG MOUNTAIN TO SQUEEZE ITS PEOPLE INTO FIELDS BEYOND.

VIEW OF THE MOUNT ROYAL TUNNEL, UNDER CONSTRUCTION, WITH A SECTION OF THE "MELON PATCH" BEYOND, AND A FARM THAT BROUGHT ITS OWNER HALF A MILLION DOLLARS.

Montreal, Can., Aug. 16.—Montreal, most congested city in America, after New York, is doing something unique in the world's history, in its quest for space and fresh air. It is boring a $25,000,000 tunnel through a big mountain, so that the dammed-up population may flow through and spread out on the pleasant, healthful farm land six miles beyond.

Such a vast, costly feat of engineering was necessary to supply the direct suburban transportation which, to most cities, is easy and inexpensive. Montreal covers only nineteen square miles. Crowded between Mount Royal and the St. Lawrence river, it could neither grow over the mountain nor spread around it.

Detroit covers over forty square miles, and Montreal has 60,000 more people than Detroit. Buffalo spread over forty-two square miles and Montreal is 100,000 bigger than Buffalo.

For years the tunneling of Mount Rayol has been considered by railroad officials, and finally the Canadian Northern undertook it. There were two years of preliminary bargaining, after which currency by the satchel full was paid over to the owners of the farms which made the Montreal melons famous, in the purchase of their land. More than $1,500,000 was paid out in that way, with currency, in the rush of land speculation that followed the announcement of the plan. One farmer was paid $117,000 and another farm brought $781,783.

When the electric locomotives begin running through the tunnel a new city will spring into being, governed by commission, and modern in every respect.

The Mount Royal tunnel will be three and one-third miles long. The work is in charge of the engineer who directed the Pennsylvania cross-town tunnel, S. P. Brown. Fifteen hundred men will be kept busy upon it for eighteen months, and the volcanic rock which will be taken out will be used for ballasting trans-continental tracks.

Driving a tunnel over three miles through a mountain and making it meet within a sixteenth of an inch requires nice work, but Mr. Brown expects to succeed.

STRANGE MALADY TURNS MAN BLACK

Farmer, White and Ruddy Five Months Ago, Darker Than Mulatto.

CASE IS BAFFLING

St. Louis, Aug. 16.—Afflicted by a mysterious malady which has baffled more than fifty St. Louis physicians who have been called in consultation, S. A. Hendricks, sixty-five years old, a farmer of Van Buren, Mo., is turning black at the Mayfield sanitarium.

Five months ago his skin was fair and ruddy. Now his complexion is several shades darker than that of a mulatto and getting darker. This change is so rapid that it can be noted from day to day by the physicians, who are powerless to check it or even to find a satisfactory explanation for the strange transformation.

When Hendricks was taken to the sanitarium, July 25, he weighed 190 pounds. His present weight is ninety-five pounds. Despite his weakened physical condition he begged that he be permitted to go out and seek employment. When told that he could not he smiled and said:

"Well, I guess I could not get a white man's job, anyway. They'd take me for a negro."

While at work on his farm five months ago Hendricks felt a sharp pain in his abdomen, quickly followed by muscular pains all over the body. After several sleepless nights he called a physician. Already his color had begun to change to yellow. The country doctors diagnosed his malady as acute biliousness. Their treatment relieved the pains, but could not check the progressive darkening of the skin.

SUELZER LOW ON PLANT ADDITION

Contract to Be Awarded by the Board of Public Works.

PAVING BIDS ARE IN

Contractor John Suelzer submitted the lowest bid on the ne waddition to the city electric lighting plant and the contract will probably be awarded to him and he is several hundred dollars below his nearest competitor.

The bids are Suelzer, $8,188; Junghaus, $8,215; Hilgeman & Bro., $8,378; Paul Kinder, $8,610; Mike Kinder, $8,930. The new structure will be commenced just as soon as possible to have it under cover before the bad weather sets in.

Contracts Are Awarded.

The board of public works awarded to the Moellering Construction company the contracts for paving alleys as follows: Between Main and Berry, a width of fourteen feet, price $2.85 per lineal foot; between Calhoun and Hanna streets, from Main to Washington streets, $1.89; between DeWald street and Creighton avenue from Clinton and Barr, $3.03.

The widening of Packard avenue was deferred because of a claim made by Milton G. Kimmel that the board's award of $745 for twenty-five feet off his lot is not sufficient and nothing will be done until September 12. The petition of the residents of Eliza street for early action on the paving of the street next spring was filed. An assessment role was ordered for the paving of South Wayne avenue.

raging fires visited the territory south of the city, and it is believed that is the reason the bones were found so near the surface.

Messrs. Palmer and Greider had been employed some time in grubbing out the undesirable shrubbery on the farm, and were engaged at this task Thursday when they were astonished at the size of a bone which they dug out. Curiosity prompted them to search further and in a short time they found the jawbones and a section of the tusk.

Until he has heard from the Smithsonian officals, Mr. Alden will delay the work of searching for more of the animal's bones. It is believed that the skeleton has been buried several hundred years, as most of the bones are so badly decayed that they can scarcely be handled, and it is also thought that sections of the skeleton, of less solidity, have completely decayed and turned to earth.

A number of interested spectators have visited the spot and are astonished at the discovery.

of the pending anti-trust suit against the International Harvester company, made an exhaustive investigation of the moving picture business, drawing the petition filed today by United States Attorney John C. Swartley. In addition the bill is signed by Attorney General Wickersham and James A. Fowler, his assistant. The petition says that between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 feet of pictures are printed each week by manufacturers and distributed to thousands of exhibitors all over the United States. The government declares that sum greatly in excess of $100,000,000 had been invested in the different branches of the business. The defendants control, it is added, from 70 to 80 per cent of the film business, furnishing approximately 7,000 exhibitors.

Only to Bring Law Suits.

The Motion Picture Patents company, organized in New Jersey in Sept. 1908, is the holding company of all the moving picture patents of the defendants.

Other than collecting and distributing royalties among the defendants, the bill says that the patents company's only business is the bringing of lawsuits under the patents it holds. Hundreds of suits have been brought; it is alleged, "to harrass and oppress all persons engaged in the motion picture business who have not obeyed its mandates."

The General Film company, organized in Maine, in April, 1910, alleged to be the agency through which the defendant's films are distributed to exhibitors throughout the country, was formed the petition avers, to monopolize the business of the rental exchanges which previously distributed the films. This company, it is declared, has acquired the business or cancelled the licenses held from the Motion Picture Patents company, of ever rental exchange in the United States with one exception, at a cost of $2,243,090 in cash and $794,800 in preferred stock.

Ties Up Exhibitors.

The alleged unlawful combination of the defendants became effective January 1, 1909, according to the petition. At that time the power of the monopoly of the defendants was absolute, it is stated, as they were the only manufacturers or importers of motion pictures in the country. Not one of the thousands of exhibitors throughout the United States, it is charged, can obtain a motion picture manufactured by any one of the defendant manufacturers unless he has received a license from the patent company, which obligates him to use the films of the alleged combination exclusively.

"Defendants through the patents company," the petition adds, "were enabled to and did determine whether new motion picture theaters should or should not be opened, and whether old ones should be closed, although defendants had no proprietary interest in such theaters. This power they have exercised and continue to exercise arbitrarily and unreasonably through the patents company."

Each of the ten film manufacturing defendants have a license with the patents company providing that films shall not fall into the hands of exhibitors who use any but the defendants' exhibiting or projecting machines.

The patents company agreed with the manufacturers of exhibiting machines stipulating that every machine should be sold subject to the condition that it shall be used only for films of the alleged combination. These agreements, it is said, fixed the selling price of machines.

Action Is Important.

The moving picture anti-trust suit filed today is regarded by the department of justice as one of its most important moves under the law, as it squarely asks for a judicial determination of the relation of that statute to the patent laws. The suit will test the right of corporations and individuals to join the respective patent monopolies into one big monopoly through alleged combinations and agreements. These issues, it is declared, are brought out more forcibly in today's suit than any pending anti-trust litigation.

CONGRESS IS VERY UNEASY

checks. As soon as the president signs the bill the sub-treasuries will be ordered by wire to honor immediately the drafts of the 18 outlying pension agencies, which by the provision of the law which so long delayed its passage, will go out of existence on Jan. 31, 1913.

After that date the Washington bureau will mail checks direct. The agencies probably will be dismantled and their records brought to Washington gradually. The first agencies to be abandoned will be at Indianapolis, Knoxville, Louisville, New York, Philadelphia and Topeka. The others will be brought in at intervals. The change throws 285 clerks out of office.

SEEKS TO BANISH GRAY HAIR.

Paris Specialist Says Color Is Caused by Germ.

Paris, Aug. 16.—French doctors are just now studying the causes of gray hair, which some learned savants hold to be curable. Prof. Metchanikoff thinks that grayness is caused by a microbe eating out the color and believes this minute pest can be expelled by the application of heat. M. Lucien Jacques differs from the famous professor, and insists that both grayness and baldness are due to the overstimulation of the nervous centers brought about by digestive troubles. "Put the stomach right," he says, "and half the battle is won." Another exponent of the healing art, Dr. Guelpa, denounces shampooing, frictions and other manipulations of the cerebral thatch and prescribes the application of grease as a means of preserving the color of the hair. So many different theories are being enunciated that bald and gray-haired Parisians can try a fresh cure every day of the week.

ENTERED COSMA'S STORE.

Thieves thought to be boys entered Mike Cosma's store at Lafayette and Holman streets last night and stole some candy and cigarettes. After failing to remove the putty to take out a pane of glass they threw a piece of iron pipe through it and unlocked the sash.

ACTOR GOODWIN SERIOUSLY HURT

Paralysis of the lower limbs has developed, according to Dr. Oscar Anderson, indicating an injury to the spine. The muscles of the left side also are affected.

Dr. Anderson would not say that Mr. Goodwin's condition at this time was likely to result fatally, but admitted that a consultation of surgeons had been called.

Mr. Goodwin passed only a fair night. He told the nurses there was constant pain in his spine and frequent hypodermic injections were necessary to give him relief. It was learned that the young woman who accompanied Mr. Goodwin and Capt. Albert Hyder, of the launch Nora, was Miss Marjorie Moreland, leading lady for Goodwin's last company. She was uninjured.

How It Happened.

Goodwin and a woman of his company engaged the launch Nora, Capt. Albert Hyder, of Santa Monica, to make a trip up the coast today with a view of locating some land which, Goodwin said, he wished to buy and convert into a summer resort.

The woman had a note which she told Captain Hyder was for an Indian, who lived near Hueneme, and when a point twelve miles south of that place had been reached she spied an Indian hut and demanded that Captain Hyder take her note ashore and give it to the Indian. Hyder refused because of the strong tide and rough breakers, but Goodwin, taking off his coat and vest, grabbed the note and jumped into a rowboat. When the boat reached the breaker line it was overturned. Goodwin was thrown upon shore and stunned. With the next roll of the breakers the boat was thrown on Goodwin.

Hyder got Goodwin into the launch and hurried to Santa Monic, where the actor was placed in a hospital.

NEW ROAD WILL LAST.

Repairs to Swinney Park Driveway Will Be Completed Sunday.

The park board expects to be able to open up the Swinney park driveway on next Sunday, when repairs to the road will have been completed. The driveway has undergone a careful rehauling, having been spiked, treated with liquid asphalt, covered with crushed stone and sand and rolled hard. The half-mile track around the park is being treated with the asphalt and rolled, but only a small part of the work is being done at a time so that traffic is not blocked.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORING TOWNS

STEUBEN WOMAN IS NOW 107 YEARS OLD

Attended the Annual Reunion of the Old Settlers' Association Held at Angola.

Angola, Ind., Aug. 16.—Present at the forty-second annual reunion of the Old Settlers' association of Steuben county yesterday, held in this city, was Mrs. Mary Mougherman, of Angola, who is now 107 years of age, the oldest resident of the county. She was greeted by hundreds of friends, who grasped her hand and wished her a continuance of years of life among them. Mrs. Mougherman, despite her advanced age, is in the enjoyment of reasonably good health and retains to a marked degree her mental faculties. She had with her a ball of yarn which she spun in the old-fashioned manner after she had reached her one hundredth birthday. This was exhibited and attracted a great deal of interest.

The attendance at the reunion was large, perhaps the largest that has ever been present on an occasion of like character in this county. The program in the forenoon was given at the Methodist church and it was crowded. The list of the dead during the past year was read by the secretary, W. K. Sheffer. It showed seventy persons, classed as old settlers, who had died since the last reunion.

The afternoon meeting was held in the courthouse. Senator Stephen A. Powers presiding. The speakers were Hon Chas A. Bowersox and Hon. John W. Hanan. The state superintendent of public schools, Charles Greathouse, was present and gave a ten minutes talk, showing the progress that the advance of years had made in the schools.

O. F. Rakestraw and Marvin B. Butler gave interesting reminiscences. The latter told stories of the underground railroad for the rescue of slaves during the days before the war of the rebellion.

Senator Stephen A. Powers was re-elected president of the association for the coming year and W. K. Sheffer was re-elected secretary.

PRIEST CONDUCTS MATRIMONIAL BUREAU

postmarks from almost every state in the union. All large cities were represented, and many had been mailed in foreign countries.

"This is my morning's mail," explained the father, his eyes twinkling.

"Since I opened my matrimonial guild the first of the year I have received more than 7,000 of these letters from men and women in all parts of the world who are seeking helpmates. I've had to hire a stenographer to help me answer them. I'll tell you what all these heart stories have taught me."

Father Dalton stood up. He is of medium height, with a kindly face that might mark him as a banker or physician. He speaks with a charming touch of Irish brogue. Just approaching his sixty-fourth year, he already has left behind him 40 years of service to Kansas City. Today they say he knows more people here than any other man.

Because the young people of his parish were not marrying fast enough, he started a matrimonial school the first of the year. His classes, which meet once a week to listen to him discourse on this subject, have ranged from 50 to 100.

Fifteen engagements have resulted in those classes. And the publicity given to the venture has made the father's study the busiest matrimonial bureau in the country. Already he is able to announce altogether 108 engagements and several marriages. Among his correspondents are millionaires, judges, physicians, laborers, school teachers, nurses, etc.

"I am prouder of my own sex than of the women," he said. "Men really are looking for good wives. But women want to marry money. They ask for rich city men. Of all the letters from men only two spoke of money. One was a faker and the other was feeble-minded.

"People may say I am bothering with something which does not concern me when I talk about family life and marriage, but I tell you it is the sublimest social problem.

"I believe in marriages on small incomes if the young man and young woman face their venture as the most serious thing in the world. A rich marriage is usually unhappy, and a speedy marriage is usually a fool marriage.

"Young men today want to be irresponsible. I tell them they are like driftwood on the sea. They do not do their duty by staying single.

"It makes me boil when I get letters from girls who say they want a man who does not chew, drink, smoke or swear. As though these were the cardinal sins! She wants to inquire what he DOES DO. A man must have a safety valve, and I always suspect the seemingly perfect man of being a rascal.

"Children today are brought up so fast they are worn out men and women at 30. Ask an engineer how a new locomotive should be handled. He will tell you it must betried out on slow speed. So with children. Men ought to be at their prime at 40, and not nervous wrecks.

"Boys and girls should be together more. The idea of separate schools for the sexes is nonsense. They ought not to be bashful in the presence of one another."

SPEAKER SCORES DRESS OF WOMEN

Says Merry Widow Hats Were First Evidence of Insanity.

BAD FOR THE MORALS

Rushville, Ind., Aug. 16.—"The first evidence of insanity among women was when the merry widow hat became popular," declared Mrs. Lenora M. Lake, who is known as "mother" by Chautauqua talent everywhere, while lecturing on "The Divine Right of the Child," at the Chautauqua.

"That terrible monstrosity, that horrible thing was taken into homes," she continued, "and it was worn to theaters and churches. And that one thing combined to keep more men away from church than anything else. Can you imagine a man with a red and swollen neck, even when he awakens Monday morning, caused from ducking, straining and careening to see around one of those big Paris creations, and then doubt that he would be disgusted with church service?

"Women get what they think is fashion, but it isn't. They are always three years late. Fashion is not what the best people wear. The manufacturers decided three years ago that blue should be all the rage—rage is the right word—this spring. And they flooded the country with blue. You wore blue. They may have decided on brown, red, green or yellow for 1915, and you will go ahead and buy it because you think it is in style."

Sweeping Denunciation.

Mrs. Lake denounced hobbles, rats, puffs, curls, sheath skirts and other freaks of feminine fashion as deplorable and an insult to intelligent womanhood. "These rats and curls and puffs and other flub-dubbery rob the girl of her dignity and her girlish charm. If a girl were born with a head that looks like the one which she now essays, with all the modern ideas of hairdressing combined, her father would search the land for an able surgeon to remove the bumps."

Mrs. Lake ridiculed the modern tube skirts, and pronounced them too indecent for a barbaric age. "Rather," she said, "should we cast aside all our clothing and expose our nude forms, because, then nothing but disgust could result, than make possible the remarks of the profligate or the libertine on the street corner. I am reminded of the priest and the altar boy who were about to board a street car and were delayed by two women, gowned in the so-called fashion. The priest voiced his resentment to such dress. The little altar boy looked on interestedly, and then observed that those women were not dressed, they had on bandages."

Careless in Morals.

"We are not an immoral nation, but we are loose and careless," declared Mrs. Lake. "We set examples and drop expressions that are not fit for the children to hear, and worst of all, we allow literature that they should not be allowed to read to come into our homes. The modern daily newspaper which gathers up all the filthy nastiness of a day and puts it on the front page under double headlines or in a glowing color is devoured by your children. They may not understand it, but it arouses vague questions in their minds and they will find the answer."

Mrs. Lake believes in woman suffrage when the man is not fit to rule. "Every home should have a head," she continued, "and the head should be the man if he is fit for the job. Every corporation has a head that is competent. He has to prove his worth. So then why should not the ruler of the home be tried and if he is found wanting be cast aside?

"But I am not worried about the men so long as the women remain safe and sane and sober. When we women lose our individuality and purity God help the nation. And we must have as clean and wholesome a father as we expect of our mother, but we will not have that condition until the women rise up as one and demand it."

Breakfast Monotony

—the same old chops, or bacon and eggs, and biscuit, for breakfast—may be avoided.

For a change, try this ideal breakfast:
Some fresh fruit
Saucer of Grape-Nuts and cream
A soft-boiled egg
Some nice crisp toast
A cup of Postum

This will give you an ideal combination of the three principal food elements—proteids, carbohydrates and fats—in the most easily digestible form.

And it means a wide awake individual with energy and a clear head to make a stir in the world; it replaces that dull, sluggish feeling which so often follows the too-much-meat-and-biscuit breakfast.

The man who has work to do can't afford to be overloaded with the kind of food that requires undue effort on the part of his digestive organs for a time and leaves him with a "gone feeling" just about the time of day when he needs his best mental and physical powers.

Grape-Nuts food affords real strength of mind and body with little effort (or waste force) in getting it converted in the system into energy and staying-power—the power to act and to endure.

As to Furore Transitoria.

Some ingenious Chicago lawyer has evolved a new plea of defense for the slayer, and it has been hoisted into a place in the lexicon of legal technicalities under the fanciful title of furore transitoria. Incidentally it is being given its try-out in the effort to secure acquittal for a woman accused of the murder of her husband under circumstances which the state is attempting to show were brutal and heartless to the last degree. The crime was committed, it also appears, after repeated threats had been made by the woman to commit the crime for which she is now on trial, and the case appears so vicious in every way that the state has gone to the unusual length of asking that the death penalty be inflicted upon the woman.

Furore transitoria may be a distinct improvement over the dementia Americana which Mr. Littleton introduced to the public in his brilliant if ineffectual effort to secure freedom for Harry Thaw. It is fully as fanciful and makes quite as generous a mouthful when one pronounces it, but somehow it lacks the tintinnabulation of dramatic and chivalrous appeal that characterized Mr. Littleton's happy thought. The creator of furore transitoria obligingly explains that it is a "state of mental aberation, the result of violent hysterical agitation." This leads us to suspect that after all perhaps we may have discovered nothing really new. It may be but an adroit subterfuge to escape the admission that it is merely an aggravated case of furious and ungovernable temper. On the whole it would be much safer for those who contemplate a resort to furore transitoria to escape just consequences of their acts to wait and see how the high-sounding thing is going to work.

It was a foregone conclusion that Ex-Governor Odell, of New York, would be elected to membership in the Annanias club as soon as Mr. Roosevelt observed his declaration that Mr. Harriman's campaign contribution was raised and paid over at the express request of the strenuous gentleman who was then president. Well, Mr. Odell has arrived and is in good and regular standing.

Uncle Sam has sent one of his agents to Fort Wayne to look into the question of a new postoffice building or an enlargement of the present structure. Uncle Sam realizes that Fort Wayne is growing so rapidly that present quarters will very soon be wholly inadequate to take care of his business here, and he is doing a little timely figuring on the future.

The rest of the country will cordially second the senate committee's motion that we hear, from George W. Perkins on the subject of campaign contributions. It will be interesting to hear just what this eminent financier did in the way of providing cash for the republican organization with which he is now at war.

That resounding crash one occasionally hears nowadays, may be but the reverberation of the echo as some prominent citizen changes his political affiliations and lands in another party, new or old as the case may be.

THE PASSING OF THE POPULISTS.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The 1912 national convention of the once formidable people's, or populist, party, just held at St. Louis by eight delegates, is eclipsed in paucity of attendance only by the historic assembly of the three tailors of Tooley street. Yet twenty years ago Gen. James B. Weaver, the first nominee of the party for the presidency, polled 1,041,028 votes. What has become of the other 1,041,020?

Weaver, who had been the greenback party's nominee in 1880, won twenty-two electoral votes in 1892 under the populist banner—four from Colorado, three from Idaho, ten from Kansas, three from Nevada and one each from Oregon and North Dakota. The only other third party that ever gained more electors was the movement of the Bell-Everett constitutional unionists in 1860, who won thirty-nine electors in three states and polled 580,000 votes.

The coalition with the Bryan forces in 1896 robbed the populists of individuality as a party, and when it was attempted to revive it in 1900 Wharton Baker, of Philadelphia, their candidate, polled but 50,000 votes. In 1904 Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, headed a populist ticket and received 117,000 votes, but in 1908 all he had left of them was 29,000.

Yet the populists left their impress upon the country. They practically captured the democracy and held it for eight years. Even today there are democrats who bewail the survival of populism in the party, and there are ultra-conservative republicans who deplore—in private at least—some taint of erstwhile populism in their own party. But after the original eight adjourn at St. Louis the populists as a party will have passed into history.

SUN-COOKED FOOD.

(Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

Going back to first principles, the latest food fad is uncooked or sun-cooked food. The advocates of this idea say that "before the use of fire primitive man took his sustenance as birds and wild animals still do, and there is evidence that he had better teeth, a harder body and was exempt from many of the ailments from which people suffer today." Therefore they urge that nature should be allowed to do whatever cooking is necessary.

"In all nature," say these people, "every animal but man finds food ready prepared. Then why should human beings boil and roast and fry and in the end be worse off than those that eat raw food? In fact, we have eaten some kinds of uncooked food for years, and so the step to a complete diet is not great.

"Lettuce, tomatoes, celery and fresh fruits are all uncooked. They are not prodigested so that the stomach is not deprived of its rightful tasks. The real fact is that uncooked food calls for strong organs, and while it calls for strong organs it produces them. No lion or tiger or cow has cooked food; no fish requires it; no bird or flower gets a boiled dinner. Why should we?"

These uncooked food advocates are running a close race with the frugivors, who eat only nuts and fruit. Those who adopt this method of eating do not touch grains or vegetables of any kind. Some persons who travel have become enthusiastic frugivors and congratulate themselves that they never have to fret over buffet cars or hotel menus.

Their meals are always ready and their food contains no starch to clog the stomach and intestines. Pecans, pignolias, peanuts, chestnuts and other nuts are on their menu in capital letters. In eating three meals a day the frugivors eat nuts first, then sweet fruits and lastly several kinds of juicy fruits. Raisins, figs, prunes and dates are soaked before eating and tomatoes are classed among fruits.

PINHEAD POLITICS.

(New York World.)

Governor Wilson is already suffering the petty degradations that busybodies inflict on a presidential candidate. His wife is obliged to deny that she favors cigarette-smoking by women. If she had not thought it proper to deny this for her own sake, the governor's managers would probably have had to deny it for her, in order to save the anti-woman's-cigarette-smoking vote. As it is, there are grave fears that the denial has alienated the cigarette-suffragette vote.

Wilson managers are preparing briefs to demonstrate that he has never persecuted Roman Catholics, and other briefs to demonstrate that he does not favor them above all other men. They will have to furnish documentary evidence that he never believed any immigrant from Southeastern Europe to be base or mean, or smash goes the entire Italian-Hungarian-Polish-Servian-Bulgarian-Montenegrin vote. But eureka! in escaping this danger he will not have to sacrifice the Chinese laundrymen's vote, for they have no vote.

Stump speakers will lay stress on the fact that the governor has a colored butler and therefore is deserving of the whole negro vote. Princeton men will be exhorted to vote for him for the sake of old Nassau. Secret-fraternity men will be organized to vote implacably against him because he was rude to them at Princeton. The Scotch-Virginian vote is for him because his ancestors came from Scotland and he was born in Virginia.

And so it goes, until at times it looks as if the only vote in the country which did not matter was the American vote. But in reality all this catering by politicians to narrow cliques will not make a ripple on the result.

The American people have developed beyond the influence of such parochial politics. They elect or defeat presidents these days on public principles, not on private prejudices.

THE BUSINESS SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT FOR INDIANA CITIES

AN IMPROVED PLAN FOR CITY GOVERNMENT
NON PARTISAN EXPERT EFFICIENCY
CONTROL BY THE PEOPLE

(By the Publicity Committee, Business System of Government State Organization.)

American Government.

In this country popular government has rendered great and lasting services to humanity, but that it has entirely fulfilled the great hopes of the lovers of freedom throughout the world no intelligent man will claim. Many unjust charges have been made against it, but too many charges have been sustained. Its municipal governments from the Atlantic to the Pacific have been discredited by corruption and inefficiency, and many of the men who have directed their affairs are convicted criminals, and more ought to be. The states which are really governed by the people can be counted on the fingers of two hands. An elaborate system of interlocked business and politics has assumed such proportions that it has, over half the country, usurped the function of government. The politicians talk much about the "will of the people" as the supreme law, but they do it with their tongues in their cheeks; they have devised an extra governmental system which blocks and defeats that will at every turn. It is not too much to say that in many states popular elections are a sham. It is the consciousness that they are bound hand and foot by invisible shackles that has filled a great many Americans with a kind of despair and awakened in others a passionate resentment. The greed of a small group of capitalists is responsible for the great revolt against the organized tyranny of money in mean and unscrupulous hands; and the stupidity of machines and the selfishness of politicians who have basely organized the generous opportunities which popular institutions furnish for private ends, and have betrayed freedom in the house of its friends, have set in motion a new struggle for self-government which will not stop short of complete recovery of the power which has been stolen and misappropriated.—The Outlook.

Man in Gem Robbery Promises Sensational Disclosures.

Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 16.—Arthur Dorman, arrested at Newcastle, Pa., and brought back here to answer charges of implication in several diamond robberies, declares that the disclosures at his trial will be a sensation, as he proposes to tell the names of prominent persons who were confederates. Dorman ran away four months ago, forfeiting $400 cash bail, and says the reason he avoided trial then was that a close friend of his might not be incriminated.

SCROFULOUS TROUBLES

No truth is more forcibly manifested in physical life than the old saying "like begets like;" for just as the offspring of healthy ancestry are blessed with pure, rich blood insuring good health, so the children of blood-tainted parentage inherit a polluted circulation which fosters a chain of scrofulous troubles. The usual signs of a scrofulous inheritance are swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, pale, waxy complexions, sores and ulcers and general poor health. Treatment should be commenced at the first indication of Scrofula for it may get beyond control if allowed to run unchecked. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Scrofula. It renovates the circulation and drives out all scrofulous matter and deposits. S. S. S. goes to the bottom of the trouble and removes the cause and cures the disease. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is an absolutely safe remedy for young or old. Book on the blood and medical advice free to all who write.

WILSON TAKES RAP AT TARIFF

Assails Restrictive Duties in First Speech of the Campaign.

TALKS TO FARMERS

Gloucester, N. J., Aug. 16.—Thousands of farmers massed about Governor Woodrow Wilson here yesterday and heard him make his first campaign speech since he was officially notified a week ago of his nomination to the presidency.

The governor spoke extemporaneously at Washington park, where the farmers of New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania were participating in a farmer's day celebration. The candidate dwelt mostly upon the protective tariff which he called "the restrictive tariff," attacked Senator Aldrich and his tariff-making associates, pointed outthe benefits of a merchant marine in connection with the Panama canal and blamed the influence of express companies in preventing the adoption of a parcels post.

The governor was frequently interrupted by applause and cheers. When he finished speaking many of the farmers crowded forward to shake hands. In part he said:

"Here we are at a farmer's picnic and on this day I suppose we might say that the farmers occupy the center of the stage. When did the farmer ever occupy the center of the stage in our politics? I don't remember any time. I have seen the interests of a great many classes specially regarded in legislation, but I must frankly say that I have seldom seen the interests of the farmer regarded in legislation. And one of the greatest impositions upon the farmer of this country that has ever been devised by the present tariff legislation of the United States.

No Hearing for Farmers.

"I have not heard of farmers waiting for a hearing before the committee on ways and means of the house and the finance committee of the senate in order to take part in determining what the tariff schedule should be. While you were feeding the world, congress was feeding the trusts.

"It is a long time since tariffs were made by men who even supposed that they were seeking to serve the general interests, because tariffs are not made by the general body of members of either house of congress. They have in the past been made by very small groups of individuals in certain committees of those houses, who even refused information to their fellow members as to the basis upon which they had acted in framing the schedules.

"One of the gentlemen who has been most conspicuously connected with this thing has in recent years prudently withdrawn from public life. I mean the one-time senior senator from Rhode Island, Mr. Aldrich.

"Then there is another thing in which you ought to be deeply interested, which is in the program of the great party I belong to. That is the parcels post. This is the only civilized country in the world where the government does not see to it that rates established by the government enable men to ship their goods, large and small, as they please from one end of the continent to the other. We have no parcels post until you reach the ports, and from the ports to the other side of the Atlantic you can have parcels post rates but you can't have them inside the United States. Because—may I conjecture the reason?—because there are certain express companies which object.

Not for Private Gain.

"Now, I move that the objections on all private enterprises be overruled. I move that we establish a parliamentary procedure by which they will not even be considered, not in order that men who have made legitimate investments of capital may not have their proper returns for it, but in order that they may not look to the government for their proper return for it. The trouble with the business of the United States under the tariff is that men think they can't make money without the assistance of the government. And as long as you allow them to think that, then every mother's son of us is tied to the apron strings of the old grandmother sitting in the capitol at Washington.

"If prosperity is not going to be checked in this country we must broaden our borders and make conquest of the markets of the world. That is the reason that America is so much interested in breaking down that dam against which all the tides of our prosperity have banked up, that great dam that runs all around our coasts and which we call the protective tariff. I would prefer to call it the restrictive tariff. I would prefer to call it the tariff that holds us back; the tariff that pens us in, the tariff that chokes us, the tariff that smothers us."

now that it is time to mention some other things equally as interesting. In one township alone in Allen county, which at one time was composed of Roosevelt republicans, I find a wholesale migration to the Taft ranks. The republicans there were first for Roosevelt and against the organization of a new party, feeling that they would support the county and district ticket already nominated, and then vote for Roosevelt for president. Now that a movement has been started for a new party, they have openly declared their disgust for such proceedings and tell me that they will support the regular ticket from Taft down."

Mr. Houk states that he has reason to believe that a new ticket will do great damage to Roosevelt's chances for election. He says many progressives are against a new ticket and will not support one if placed in the field.

Cannot Get Speaker.

From all appearances, the republicans of Allen and Adams counties, in joint senatorial convention tomorrow at the court house, will not be afforded the privilege of hearing a state speaker. A. J. Vesey, district chairman, has been informed that there is such a demand for speakers throughout the state that none can be sent to Fort Wayne for tomorrow's convention. It is now planned to have some local orator deliver the principal address before Noah Egly, of this city, is given the nomination. Mr. Egly will have no opposition, and as far as the nomination is concerned he will have easy sailing. Mr. Egly is a native of Adams county and has a good following among the republicans of the county. In recent years he has been in business in Fort Wayne and has become well known in Allen county.

Geake Makes Denial.

Will C. Geake is again forced to deny that he is an aspirant for office. Announcement has been made that friends of Mr. Geake desire him to enter the race for the circuit judgeship on the progressive ticket, but Mr. Geake states that he is a candidate for no office and will not be identified with politics except as an interested spectator.

"I would like it understood distinctly that I am not a candidate for anything," said Mr. Geake this morning. "I wonder what I will be a candidate for, according to rumor, tomorrow. Every day or so I am compelled to go through the same proceeding, that of denying some candidacy."

Just As Predicted.

"Just as we predicted at the Kendallville convention on Monday, the trouble has started in Lagrange county," said a well known progressive leader. "The progressives of Lagrange pleaded valiantly wth the credentials committee to recognize the regularly appointed delegates, and instead 'rump' delegates were given preference. It was announced then that there would be trouble, and this is proving true, as District Chairman Vesey was unable to patch up peace between the republicans of Lagrange."

R. M. Waddell, secretary of the county committee, and William Herendeen, treasurer of the reactionary republicans, have resigned from the committee and their resignations are in the hands of County Chairman Louis Deal. News also comes from Lagrange county that Mr. Deal is to resign from the county chairmanship and join forces with the progressives in organizing a third party. It is the opinion that Mr. Vesey left a muddled state of affairs after his visit and succeeded only in widening the breach between the two republican factions. It is expected that the meeting to be held Saturday will be a warm affair in every particular.

Progressives of Lagrange county say that the congressional convention not only recognized delegates who were without proper credentials, but also named Dr. A. C. Beecher as a member of the credentials committee, when, in fact, he was really no delegate, as he was not selected by the convention proper, but by the bolting faction which left the convention hall on August 2. Third party advocates declare that this is what caused all the trouble in Lagrange county.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET.

Central Committee to Arrange for Campaign Fireworks.

At the meeting of the democratic central committee to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Odeon hall, arrangements will be made for opening district and county headquarters on Monday, and it is likely that dates will be selected for future meetings to be addressed by prominent state workers. Among other things the committee will again rehash the rules and regulations regarding the registration of voters. The democrats of Allen county place great importance in the necessity of securing a complete registration of voters in September.

County Chairman Johnson, who until this time has conducted his political business from his farm residence, will come to the city on Monday and with Louis S. C. Schroeder, will remain each day at the headquarters in Odeon hall.

WILL RAISE PINEAPPLES.

Pineapples and other southern fruit are to be raised on twenty-acre tracts of land in Cuba, for which place four young men left yesterday. They are Walter and Otto Barnett, sons of Dr. W. W. Barnett, and Clyde Wiggins, of this city, and Victor McCord, of Auburn. The young men are under contract with the Cuban Land and Improvement company to cultivate the lands for two years, after which they are to be given possession of them.

HERE'S A NEW PRINCETON BLAZER FOR FORT WAYNE GIRLS.

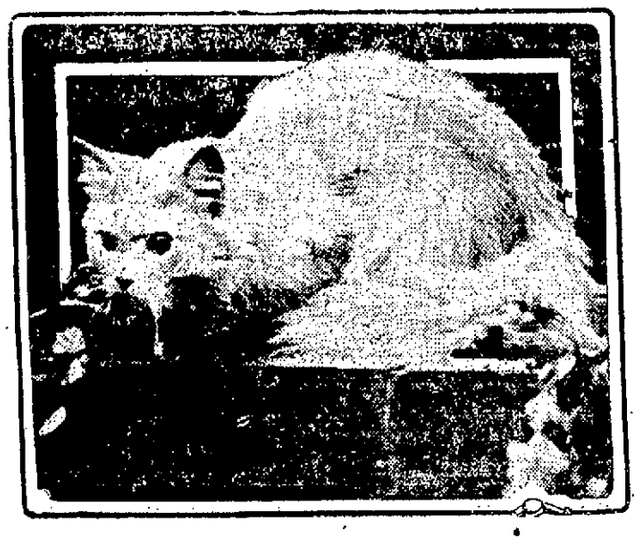
Here is a Princeton "blazer" golf coat, with cap to match, which constitute a real beau-catcher combination for the girls who propose to spend as much as possible of the crisp, fall days out o' doors.

This photograph shows the coat made in Norfolk style and in Princeton colors, a fashion traced to Wodrow Wilson's candidacy for the presidency. The alternating stripes of orange and black are striking. The loose belt and low collar are decidedly girlish.

The beauty of this outfit is that it will be appropriate for almost any outdoor sport, and it makes the wearer look smart and trim.

The cap is light and easily adjusted. The stripes on the rolling brim match the stripes on the coat.

JUST CATS



If dogs delight to bark and bite,
Then cats delight to screech
And knock their silly eyes half out
When ere they are in reach.
It is indeed a sorry sight
To see them in a bloody fight,
For they can be so kind and nice
And catch the naughty little mice.
Some kiddies, too, will scrap like cats,
Scratch their faces and tear their hats;
It is a pity this should be so,
For children are just to love, you know.

IN THE KITCHEN AND PANTRY.

Cooking Recipes Worth Knowing.

Salmon croquettes offer a suggestion for left over pieces of baked salmon or for the popular warm weather canned variety. Corn bread is good with fish, and cabbage salad is a hasty and delightful salad. A new fruit dessert is commended for its refreshing qualities.

Salmon Croquettes.

Salmon croquettes are in great favor and if daintily made they are delicious. If while the fish is still warm it is mixed with mashed potatoes and the left over white sauce, with perhaps some additions of cracker crumbs and white of egg to bind, it may be used for either croquettes or fish cakes.

Light Corn Bread.

In the evening put in a mixing bowl one pint of fine corn meal, a scant teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar anr a large tablespoonful of shortening—either lard or lard and butter mixed. Pour over just enough boiling water from the kettle to moisten thoroughly, no more. Cover closely and leave for the night. Next morning add two or three well beaten eggs (according to the season,) a half cupful of milk, one pint of sifted flour and as much more milk as may be necessary to make a thin drop batter. Pour into a well greased shallow pan and bake twenty-five minutes in a hot oven.

Cabbage Salad.

For the salad shred a new cabbage very fine and mix with a mayonnaise dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with strips of pimento.

Hat Beribboned Are NowUp to Date, Declares Ora Cne.

(St. Louis Republic.)

The milliners have entered the suffragette movement to get votes for women.

The fashion dictators have decreed that ribbons shall be the only proper trimmings for hats the coming fall and winter. The object of the ribbons will be to attract the admiring glances of the male voters and make votes come easier.

However, the ribbons are not going to be the dainty, languishing sort of things worn by the beauties of antebellum days. They will be broad, made into big bows which will show strength as well as beauty to the man who looks and admires.

That ribbons are going to be the leading style in hat trimmings this fall was vouched for by Ora C'ne, of New York, at one of his lectures, to visiting milliners on how to make nifty things in hats, which he is delivering at a wholesale millinery house.

He also states that, notwithstanding the suffrage question will come to high tension this fall, hat pins will be short.

Ribbons on the hats will be worn in bows something like eighteen inches in length. They will have the picot edge, crown edge and pearl edge, and will be twisted into many pleasing shapes.

"Purple bows will be very becoming to the brunettes," says Mr. C'ne, "and tomato reds for the blondes."

The knife pleat on the ribbons will be the principal and marked feature for 1912, and a ribbon twenty-five years old will be ultrafashionable if treated to the pleat. The ribbons used in the bows are about five feet long and ten inches wide. They are in shades of green, purple, citron, red and other luxurious colors.

One bow is made of ribbons twisted into the shape of three torches. It looks like the suffragette milliners might have gathered the idea from firebrands. Some of the bows are placed under the hat, but most of them stick out in a jaunty, military fashion.

The hats are mostly velvet and velour, with round tops and six-inch brims. One hat loks like the shovel-shaped hat of a Quaker parson. Another mannish idea has invaded the feminine headdress in the shape of a collapsible hat. It looks much like the downtrodden opera hat, only a wide, many-hued band surrounds it.

Delicious Toast
Delicate Sandwiches

Really a necessity for breakfast is delicious, crisp toast! You can talk all you want of new fangled toasters and the like, but the first need, the absolutely essential need is perfect bread.

Perfection Bread

And if you have company you'll want sandwiches. For perfect sandwiches, no matter what your filler, you need perfect bread in the first place. It takes bread like "Perfection" to make perfect sandwiches, bread that you can cut in thin slices, bread that is delicate in flavor, bread that is appetizing in itself.

Hundreds of housewives who used to bake regularly now use Perfection Bread instead.

Hundreds of husbands and children who never liked the old style baker's bread now eat "Perfection" with relish.

And hundreds of housewives have been convinced that "Perfection" Bread costs them less than their own baking.

One double loaf (ten cents) will convince you and your family.

HASN'T SPOKEN FOR THREE YEARS, DESPITE EFFORTS OF SCIENTISTS TO MAKE HIM TALK.

Convict Under Death Sentence for Part in Famous Jail Break, Most Remarkable Case in Medical Annals of California—But He May be Hanged Because Doctors Are Sure He Isn't Insane.

Folsom, Cal., Aug. 16.—Chas. Carson, convict No. 6378, hasn't spoken for three years.

For six years he has been under sentence of death for participating in a jail break, which, under the California law, means death by hanging. When Carson entered Folsom penitentiary he was apparently a sane man, who could talk, read and write. He was no different from the hundreds of other inmates of the prison.

One morning, three years ago, he lapsed into silence. Whether he suddenly lost his power of speech, or whether he has exhibited wonderful will power in refusing to talk, thereby hoping to escape death on the grounds of insanity, medical experts who have examined and submitted him to every test known to science, have been unable to determine.

Recently they put him through the ether test.

It was expected that when Carson succumbed to the intoxicating influence of the anaesthetic he would lose voluntary control of his vocal organs and reply to questions put to him by the physicians.

But during the entire period that Carson was on the table, in the operating ward, no sound escaped his lips. Had the prisoner spoken, the test would have confirmed the conclusions reached when he was subjected to a searching examination by sanity experts, that his inability to speak was feigned.

But, the negative result of the ether test renders the case more baffling.

CHARLES CARSON.

Carson was but twenty-four when he was sent to Folsom for life in 1904, after conviction of assault and robbery in Marion county. He is a South Carolinian and was the only member of the family to escape drowning in the tidal wave that swept the harbor of Charleston at the time of the earthquake in the early eighties.

Carson has been under the shadow of the gallows ever since 1906, when he was sentenced to death for participation in the famous Finley-Carson-Quljada prison break.

As an appeal to the United States supreme court was taken in Finley's case, Carson escaped execution through successive reprieves.

"What do you think will be done with you if you are kept here?" he was asked.

In reply the prisoner gripped his neck with both hands, to indicate the noose, and then raised his right arm upwards as a sign of the gallows.

"What did you get at the time of the robbery?" was another question.

Carson told off the answer by his fingers, counting $92.

In addition to refusing to talk, Carson also declines or pretends not to be able to write, although he is educated to that extent.

During the examination a pad and pencil were handed to him. He waved pad and pencil aside with a negative shake of his head, looked about the room and then picked up a book, spelling off the answer by pointing to the letters in the title.

The permanence of his aphonia was sustained in spite of the rigid examination, but Carson responded in a normal way when questions were put to him to test his memory, and in other ways to prove his sanity.

The doctors put questions to the convict as the anaesthetic overpowered his faculties and again as he came out from under its influence, but at no time did the test bring out the excited stage in which the patient talks or moans.

The doctors say that while the test would have proved that Carson was insane if he had talked, its negative result does not necessarily prove he is insane, because in exceptional cases patients go under ether as if going to sleep, and that the absence of vocal utterances may be due to temporary paralysis.

But they say that if Carson is feigning inability to speak, the refusal of his vocal organs to respond while under the anaesthetic is a remarkable demonstration of will power, possibly due to action of a subconscious mind or to inanctive reflex centers affected by the long continued non-use of the speaking power.

The medical experts have decided that despite Carson's failure to talk, that he is sane. Whether he will be hanged for his crimes rests entirely with the governor.

A BLOOD MEDICINE WITHOUT ALCOHOL.

Recently it has been definitly proven by experiments on animals that alcohol lowers the germicidal power of the body, and that alcohol paralyzes the white corpuscles of the blood and renders them unable to take up and destroy disease germs. Disease germs cause the death of over one-half of the human race.

A blood medicine, made entirely without alcohol, which is a pure glyceric extract of roots, such as Bloodroot, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Mandrake and Stone root, has been extensively sold by druggists for the past forty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

MRS. HEYER.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and a physician of large experience and practice, was the first to make up an ALTERATIVE EXTRACT of roots, without a particle of alcohol or narcotic.

"It is with the greatest of pleasure, that I write to let you know of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicines and self-treatment at home," writes MRS. WM. HEYER, of Ladysmith, B.C. "I suffered for three years from a running sore. Consulted four doctors but they failed to mend or give relief. Finally I was told I was in consumption and would have to consult a specialist concerning my ear, that the dead bone must be cut out before the wound would heal. A kind friend advised me to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and after seven months' use of the treatment the sore is healed, and I enjoy better health than I ever did. I dressed the wound with Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve and took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' for my troubles. I shall always recommend your medicines.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate liver and bowels.

SHE CARRIES GUN AND PLAYS POKER

And All to Travel With Cats, Dogs and Alligator in Box Car.

WOMAN ALSO SMOKES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16.—Masquerading in male attire in order to outwit the Santa Fe railroad, playing the part by associating with stockmen, smoking a pipe and a big black cigar, carrying a revolver and sleeping each night in a box car with a number of pets, which she was bringing to this city for a friend, was the adventure of Miss Kate Jensen, who left this city for her home in Minneapolis.

The other occupants of the car were a prize driving horse, two alligators, seventeen prize cats, a parrot and a distinguished bull dog with a long list of blue ribbons to his credit. They were the property of Miss Lillie Williams, of No. 211 North Beaudry avenue.

At the mention of the fact that a girl was going to ride in the box car the railroad officials declared it was entirely against their rules. Then the idea hit Miss Jensen that she would don male clothes and go anyway.

Eager for adventure Miss Jensen passed no opportunity. At each stop she would leave the car and join the crew.

She declared that frequently she played poker with them—and won. Often she joined them in midnight carousals in the local cafes of the towns at which they stopped, but she always drank ginger ale.

NO GRASS ON HIS GRAVE.

Tennesseeans Say Cuss Words Caused Vegetation to Wither.

Bristol, Tenn., Aug. 16.—A strange story comes from Watauga county, North Carolina, just across the Blue ridge from east Tennessee. It is told by the editor of a weekly newspaper, who says that while attending a burial in a cemetery recently his attention was called to a grave entirely bare of grass and apparently as hard packed on the surface as the dirt in a public highway. He was told this grave contained the dust of a man named Hatton, who died forty or more years ago. "Although all these years have elapsed," said the editor, "not a sprig of grass or a flower of any kind has grown upon the grave." He inquired the cause and the mountain folk explained that the man buried there was extremely profane and died with curses on his lips.

INFLAMED KIDNEYS

Medical writers declare it incurable after the sixth month whether albumenous or not.

The average man prefers to think of it as "kidney trouble" and lets it go but the census for 1900 shows this appalling fact—out of 63,000 deaths from kidney troubles over nine-tenths of them (58,000) took the form called "Bright's Disease" although it is quite probable that nine-tenths of these up to the last moment thought of it as and called it "kidney trouble" when as a matter of fact the only possible hope laid through treatment for Bright's Disease.

Until Fulton's Renal Compound was worked out we never knew of a recovery in a case of chronic Bright's Disease. Since then inflammation of the kidneys whether albumenous or not, or whether called "kidney trouble" or "Bright's Disease," or whether six months or six years standing, often yields where patients have fair hearts and recuperative power.

If you have had kidney trouble over six months, no matter what you call it, if the books are true you have something to seriously consider.

Fulton's Renal Compound can be had of D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St. Ask for pamphlet. We desire to hear from and advise with these not improving the third week. Write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco, Cal.

DENIES TIE ON WOMAN'S TONGUE

University Theologian Says Bible Injunction Not Binding Today.

PROBLEMS ARE NEW

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 16.—Modern woman henceforth may cheerfully deny the orthodox theory that the Scriptures seek to put a rein upon the feminine tongue, according to the decision given by Prof. Gerald Birney Smith, of the University of Chicago divinity school, in an article on "Theology and Biblical Criticism" in the current number of the Biblical World.

The university authority asserts that Paul's injunction to women to keep silence in the churches is not to be regarded as binding today.

This interpretation, which would seem to confer the right of free speech upon women in every realm of activity, is only one of the tenets of "higher criticism" defended by Professor Smith in a plea for a new theology applicable to present day conditions. He declares that it is no longer possible to treat scriptural statements "as if they were timeless and absolute expressions of truth."

In calling attention to the outworn injunction against feminine speech Professor Smith affirms:

"The older theologian assumed that the purpose of Bible study was to ascertain directly what one ought to believe. But a very brief examination reveals the fact that that, whatever our method, it is not so easy to determine what biblical 'truth' is. The suggestions of the tempter in the early chapters of Genesis can scarcely be said to embody 'truth.'

"No one holds that one should literally cut off his hand when it does wrong, or pluck out the right eye. How many of us always give to any man that asketh and turn not away from him who would borrow? The matter of finding what we ought to believe by a mere reading of the Bible is not so simple as it seems.

"To transfer bodily to our own day these millennial hopes means to encourage such movements as that of the Millerites in the last century, who prepared their ascension robes so as to be ready on the given day.

"Now, it requires only a little reflection to see that the problems which confront men of the twentieth century are likely to be quite different from those which men of the first century were compelled to meet. It is seen that only as doctrines shall actually help men to answer the questions in which they are interested can they preserve the function which biblical utterances fulfilled."

HARD TO FIGURE ZANESVILLE OUT

Potters Looked Like First Division Propostion in Games Here.

GILBERT CAME BACK

Just why Zanesville is plodding along down near the cellar championship position in the Central league standing is pretty hard for the few Fort Wayne fans who saw the series here against the Blikens, proud leaders of the dozen-club outfit, to figure out.

In the first engagement the Potters battled through a rain-soaked matinee and carried off a victory. In the next combat Bob Gantt had the near-champs on the run to the ninth and it took hard innings to beat him and then the eleventh-placers picked off a twelve-inning victory to mark their farewell struggle of the waning season.

And thats not all. Those Potters played real championship ball in every game and, although it was hard to lose two in these just at this most important point in the fight for the flag, every game was worth just what patrons paid for it and then some.

Edward Thomas Rogers volunteered for the final joust with his old pals, but in the third inning he sent out a C. Q. D. notifying Manager Shag that he had a disabled propeller and he was hauled into port, but not until he had pitched five innings of mighty fine baseball. Charley Alberts went to his assistance and got by to the twelfth without a bobble and then some things happened that gave the visitors enough runs to count a victory.

Curses on Jack Gilbert. Jack has a mother, or a sweetheart, or wife or something like that living near enough to Dayton for him to lay off a couple of days and visit, so he contracted with Manager Marty Hogan to fling the final fray and lay off. He certainly staged some exhibition. In the second inning he passed Bill Clancy and took a wild heave at first trying to pick him off the bag and after Rogers had popped Fabrique hit and sent over the first run of the afternoon.

In the third the Potters hooked up on Gilberts infield hit, a sacrifice, an out and Huston's nasty little roller down third base line. There was nothing more doing until the twelfth when Manda opened with a double but was retired at third on Sheehan's bunt. Meisner cut in with a single, Gilbert followed suit and Crowder got a rap to middle field and the little rally yielded two tallies.

Fort Wayne went down fighting hard and scored one run in the last half. Fabrique opened with a single, but was caught at second on Martin's grounder. McLafferty hit to Manda who threw wild to get Martin at second and both runners advanced. Martin scored on Keener's out but the Billikens could not get over the run needed to tie.

Notes of the Game.

Meisner liked the pitching and in spite of the fact that he is a semi-pro player just breaking in and is carried way down in the batting list, he managed to grab off four hits in five times up.

Harry Martin stole second and third in the eighth and tried to score on Keener's grounder, but Manda nailed him at the plate. His work on the bases was good.

Bill Hillinger did another fancy stunt when he stuck out one hand after he had fallen in going up the right field bank after Keener's drive in the sixth and caught the ball.

Manager Shaughnessy also did a nice piece of fielding on Gilbert's slash up the bank in the seventh and saved the game for a while, as Meisner was on first and would probably have scored if the ball had gotten away from the manager.

Rogers complained that his left elbow hurt him but he pitched one good inning after he had sent out his distress signal.

Charley Albert pitched some good ball and to tell the truth, there was nothing wrong with the game except that Zanesville just happened to get one run more than Fort Wayne.

Bobby Grogan came mighty near getting chased in the first inning when he "sassed" Umpire Jacobs.

Blount got as far as second in the eleventh on a pass and a sacrifice and Gilbert took no chances on Shaughnessy and passed him up to get Bill Clancy. He made a good guess.

Fred Alberts was on the grounds but his injured finger is in such shape that he will not get back before the first of September and it will be too late then.

Joe Lill, the rolling mills pitcher, worked out with Marty Hogan's men before the game and was looked over a bit.

Ned Crowder's error lost the second game but he atoned for it when he batted in the winning run yesterday.

THIS IS WHY HE CAME.

Billy Gilbert Here Ahead of His Club to Avoid Arrest.

The following special to the Erie Dispatch from Springfield tells why Billy Gilbert got here ahead of his club:

"Manager Gilbert evaded arrest here today by leaving a trail of dust between this city and Dayton, whither he fled following a warrant brought out against him by Charles E. Perigo, a former Erie newspaper man.

"Gilbert, several of his players and a bunch of baseball bugs were indulging in a fanning bee at the hotel a few hours before the game today, when Perigo, according to witnesses, butted into the argument, passing a few words about the Erie club which Gilbert objected to. It was not long before Gilberts' ire was aroused and after warning Perigo to desist, landed his right mitt flush on the latter's proboscis.

"Perigo immediately swore out a warrant for Gilbert's arrest, but the Sailor manager, rather than be held here for a hearing, made a bee line for the railroad station and made a getaway. Shortstop Quinlan was in charge of the Erie team. Gilbert will join his men at Fort Wayne."

WILL CITY HAVE CLUB NEXT YEAR

Park Lease Has Not Been Renewed and Owner is Watching Returns.

ATTENDANCE LIGHT

A whole lot of newspaper space has been devoted over to [illegible] tribute, South Bend, Zanesville and other cities in the Central league and Fort Wayne has been entirely overlooked in handing up for 1913.

Owner Claude H. Varnell does not know just he will do because he does not know what the developments may be and is not inclined to guess and the local section further than to say that he is disappointed at the again attendance during the present season and especially in a city when the club is [illegible] by leaps and bounds from eighth to first place.

He has not renewed his park lease but that does not indicate that he will abandon it [illegible] would be foolish to contract too far again before he knows what will be done toward the organization of a new circuit. Everybody who has given the situation any attention knows that there will be some changes and that they will probably be radical as the agreement under which the league and business for five years will expire the first of January and the directors will be free to act as they please.

Mr. Varnell knows that a presidential year is always said for baseball and realizes that the cost of living enters largely into curtailing expenditures for amusements but at that the club ought to draw from 700 to 800 people on week days and not less than 3,500 to any sort of a Sunday game.

He has never begged for patronage and never would allow the newspapers to inaugurate a booster day because, as has been said a hundred times, he does not feel like passing the hat in the first place and in the second he thinks he is supplying the kind of baseball that ought to sell at the price he demands for it.

The owner is not bitter against the city but he is disappointed as he has believed all the time that a first place team would yield him good returns. The next question that enters into the arrangement for next season is whether baseball helps advertise a city and is a good thing for its business interests.

There is an unwritten law that says it is and every city that was ever in organized ball has fought against any attempt to remove its club. Generally Fort Wayne is regarded as a good baseball town because it is not known that the first place club is not drawing the crowds.

None of the writers who have taken up the question of a new circuit for next year has reckoned without Fort Wayne and the city will in all probability have a club next year, as Owner Varnell has too big an investment here to abandon. The lease will probably be held for him, as Oliver S. Hanna, who is in charge of the property has always treated Owner Varnell with a fairness that insures nobody else will get the lease until after the present owner has declined to take it.

A profit yielding attendance is necessary to the permanency of the game in Fort Wayne or any other city where a club is not supported by contributions. Whether the owner will find it to his advantage to retain his park here at a loss or lose his investment and transfer his franchise to a city where the patronage is better are questions that he will determine before the first of next January.

They are private matters that he declines to discuss because he is in doubt but until there is improvement in the attendance here there is no use to read other cities out of the league because the clubs are not properly supported.

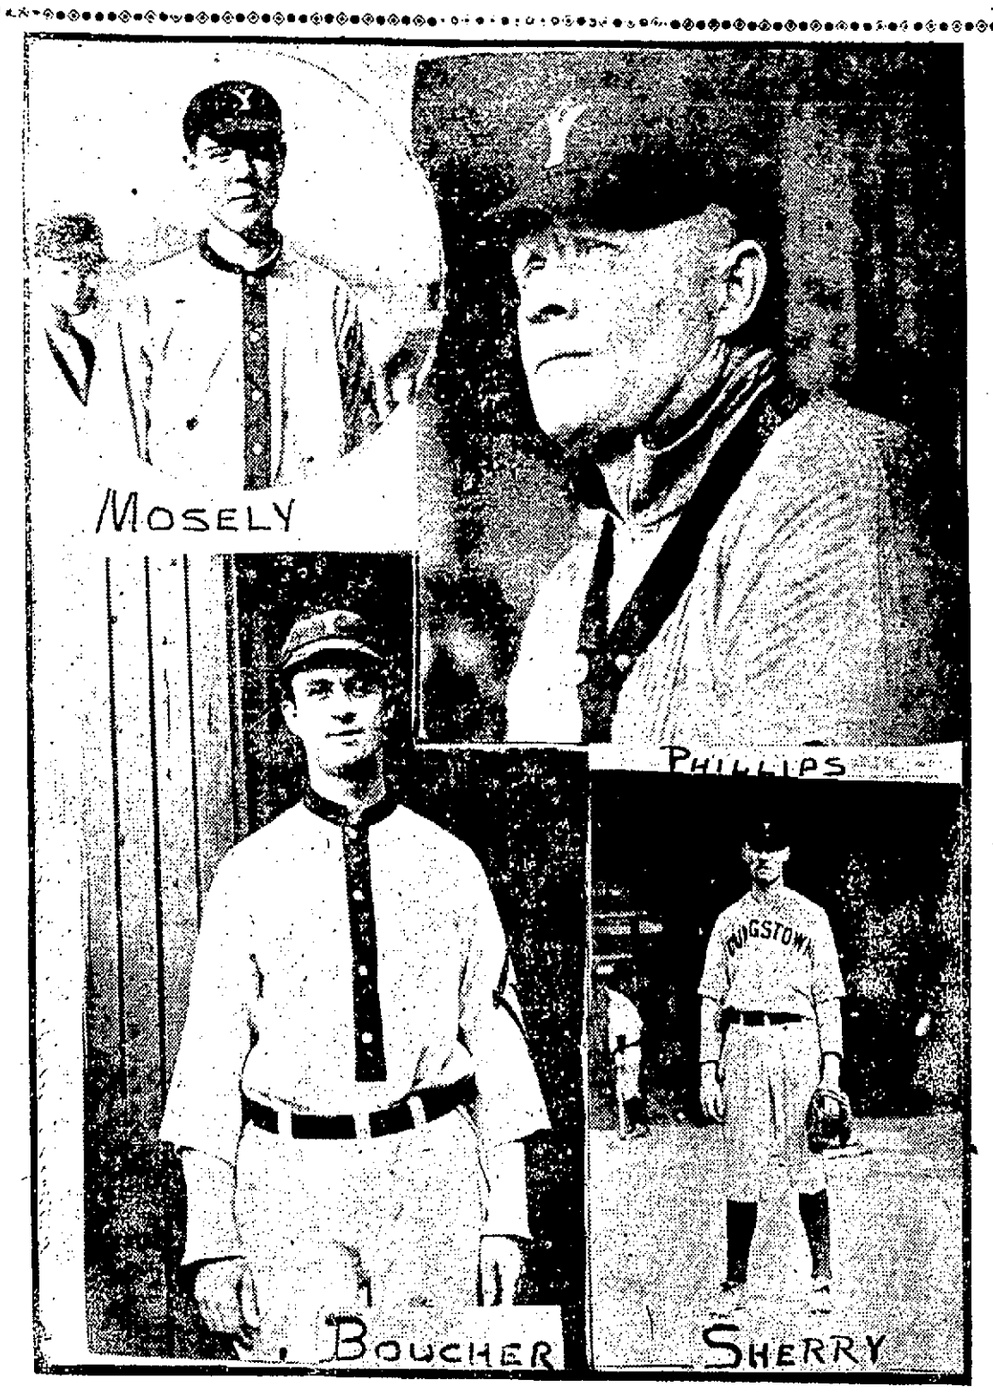
BILL PHILLIPS SAYS HIS YOUNGSTOWN TEAM IS STILL IN THE CENTRAL LEAGUE RACE.



Manager Bill Phillips of the Youngstown team, was willing to admit a few days ago that his chances for the 1912 pennant in the Central league were slim, but he has changed his mind now and contends that he will win out if he gets a good break on the road.

His Steelmen have been winning consistently since they left home and his pitching staff looks mighty good right now. He has a dandy quartet in Mosely, Zabel, Ainsworth and Sherry and they will make the fing winners hustle before the close on Labor day.

Youngstown is booked to follow Erie and will open a three days stand at League park on Monday afternoon. His club is playing finished baseball and may prove a stumbling block in the fight for first.

WANTED VARNELL TO PAY.

Couldn't Stick Him and Went After Grand Rapids Club.

Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago Nationals, tried to collect $300 from Claude H. Varnell for Outfielder Wolf, who reported here by mistake at the time Roy Keener was purchased. He was sent to Grand Rapids when Harley Parker had the club. It is not likely that the claim will stand against Bert Innis' present club, as it was formerly in South Bend, and is an entirely different franchise from that under which the purchase was made by Parker.

PFEFFER MADE A REPUTATION.

Ed Pfeffer played the outfield for Grand Rapids against Canton and misjudged one of the two fly balls knocked to him and struck out five times.

REBEL KEEN IS RECALLED.

Indianapolis Club Again Exercises Its Option on Him.

Springfield, O., Aug. 16.—Rebel Keen has been again recalled by the Indianapolis club, which exercised its option on him at the eleventh hour. He packed his baggage and departed last night for Milwaukee. As today is the last one minor league clubs have of recalling players Keen had to report at once.

Keen received a telegram Tuesday from Manager O'Day to report at Indianapolis that night. As Manager Pendry had not been notified he paid no attention to the message. Yesterday evening Pendry received orders to send Keen to Milwaukee.

Gray will be used on first and this will leave Manager Pendry with just three pitchers to keep the club in the running. The team has been going good since returning from the road trip and was in a position to finish second or third by consistent work. What effect Keen's absence has remains to be seen.

FRANK KUBAT TO BE CALLED BACK

Option Player With Ottawa Club Needed to Help Pitching Staff.

DIDN'T BUY STREMMEL

In an effort to strengthen his pitching staff Manager Frank J. Shaughnessy may recall Frank Kubat, who belongs to Fort Wayne and who has been pitching good ball for the Ottawa, Ontario, club all season. He is a young left-hander recommended by Carl Vandagrift and sent to the Ottawa club for a little seasoning.

The youngster made a good impression on Manager Shaughnessy when he worked out here in the spring, but he had had so little experience that it was thought best not to start him in class B ball. The club has not had a left-hander all season and one may help in the final lap of the pennant race.

An offer was made yesterday afternoon for the services of Phil Stremmel and the Zanesville directors asked the paltry sum of $750 for him. This is just twice as much as he is worth and twice as much as the local club is willing to give for him. He is a pretty fair class B pitcher, will never advance and may be of no service next season and the management would have been foolish to give up any such sum for the pitcher.

Billy Gilbert wants him for the Erie club and both offers were sent to the directors at the same time. This probably influenced them to boost the price to a figure that is ridiculously prohibitive, as there are lots of youngsters with the majors and class AA clubs who could be bought for that price and who might develop into good investments.

The club has six hard games ahead of it in the next six days. Erie and Youngstown will both be hard to beat and victories in at least four of the six games will be necessary to win the pennant.

Fort Wayne is still in the running and will give the best of them a hard battle. Allowing that the pitching staff is a little bit out of plumb the club is playing some great offensive and defensive baseball and it can win behind pitchers who are not going at top speed. The men are hitting in good shape and are still in trim to make a hard finish.

Today Manager Shaughnessy announced a shift in the hitting order by which McLafferty and Rogers exchange places. This is done to split up the left handers, as McLafferty will be sandwiched between Clancy and Fabrique. Clancy hits from the right side of the plate, Fabrique can hit from either side and Martin bats left handed.

Art Loitell has been suspended. He belongs to the Detroit club and will probably be sent back there if the Tigers want him, but the local management could not afford to carry him any longer.

His arm went bad on him late in July and he has been carried a full month without pitching a game and has drawn his salary regularly. Manager Shaughnessy felt he had received fair treatment from the club for his faithful service before his injury and was forced to let him go.

He is a willing worker and was pitching high-class ball when his arm became disabled. A trip to Reese at Youngstown did no good and rest is about the only thing that will help it.

Manager Shaughnessy can not tell who he will work in the game tomorrow afternoon. He will have to pick the man best conditioned and that is something he can not figure on in advance.

Billy Goldrick was picked for the opener as he is the most consistent pitcher on the staff just now and he has had no opportunity to try his spitter on the Sailors.

AUBURN TAKES FAST GAME.

Auburn took a fast game from Columbia City in which McCoombs and Rieg put up a great pitching duel. The score:

Auburn	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1	4	0

GOVERNOR BACK WITH HOME FOLK

"Tom" Marshall Addresses the Whitley County Pioneers.

GETS WARM GREETING

Columbia City, Ind., Aug. 16.—Throwing aside politics, apparently unmindful of the fact that he has been honored with the nomination for democratic vice president of the United States, Thomas Riley Marshall, governor of Indiana, addressed by everybody in Whitley county as "Tom," delivered an address here Thursday at the tenth annual reunion of the Whitley County Old Settlers' association.

"I may pose elsewhere as a great man and talk wisely to people who don't know me," said Mr. Marshall, "but whenever I come to Whitley county, my home, and the home of my people, I shall not do that."

All the old inhabitants of Whitley county were here for the reunion, and all of them knew Mr. Marshall, not as the politician, but as the boy first, and then as "Tom" Marshall, the lawyer. Slapping the governor on the back and assuring him that his election to the next highest office in the United States is merely a matter of counting the votes in November, they all gave him a hearty welcome.

The event was really more than a reunion. It was in fact, a home coming occasion for the people of Whitley county who now live elsewhere. The town was in holiday attire and the occasion was one of the best of its kind ever held by the association.

Some Old Residents.

Following Governor Marshall's address, silver loving cups were presented by Attorney E. K. Strong to Michael Hively, of Thorncreek township, the oldest resident of the county, who was born September 16, 1822, and came here in 1838, and to Mrs. Louise Cleveland Cone, of Richland township, who was born July 5, 1832, and has spent her entire life in Whitley county.

The association elected officers for the coming year as follows:

Benjamin F. Cooper, Etna township, president; M. L. Galbreath, Columbia City, vice president; Lloyd T. Clapham, Columbia City, secretary, and Jacob Jontz, Columbia City, treasurer. The retiring officers, to whom the credit of today's colossal success was largely due, are: Hugo Logan, president; Marion H. Maston, secretary; John Mowrey, treasurer; R. H. Maring, historian, and J. H. Shilts, superintendent of the display of relics, which was shown in the southeast room of the basement of the courthouse, and which attracted considerable interest from citizens and visitors alike.

The reunion program started at 8 o'clock in the morning when an address of welcome was delivered by F. B. Moe, of South Whitley. Historian Maring read the history of the county. Since the last reunion one year ago, 140 members of the association were called by death. Their names were read by Mr. Maring, and tender reference to the departed was made in the prayer of Rev. L. L. Shaffer.

Governor Marshall's Address.

Governor Marshall's address, delivered from a flag-bedecked stage, lasted forty-five minutes. It was a plain talk and an effort was made to eliminate all reference to politics. In fact Mr. Marshall declined to talk politics at all during his stay here, declaring he was home for a visit and wanted to forget the game for a day. The governor said in part:

"My old-time neighbors and friends, I cannot pretend to make a speech to you. It may be that some time within the present year, somewhere they don't know me, that I will pose as a great man and talk wisely to people—but never in Columbia City or Whitley county.

"I would rather make you a plain talk, as I am going to do; to thank you for the invitation you have extended me to come back and look you in the face and tell you that whatever happens in my life nothing can take my heart away from Whitley county and Columbia City, Indiana.

"A man must live in two ways and in two ways alone, and the man is not wise who does not live in both—in memory and in the future. Some men live only in memory and dream of the past, thinking that it holds for them all that is worth while and that the affairs of the present and those promised by the futures are sadly out of joint—that the days of their youth contained for them the only things worthy of consideration.

"To others the past amounts to nothing and is not worthy of a thought. They are oblivious to the past and the present and think that the future contains for them only the things upon which they should set their hearts. Each class is wrong, and grievously so. It is the splendid memory of the past, the realization of the blessings of the present and the glorious hope of the future that makes life worth living to people!

A Day for Memory.

"A day like we are now celebrating is an occasion for memory and recollection for dropping a tear for the dead and for the sorrow and misfortune of the past and at the same time it is for the expectations of years to come and the happiness that they will bring.

"What is so impressive as a meeting of the pioneers of the land and the boys, a mingling of the glory of the past and the hope of the future? The pioneers, you may think, have passed from the county, and, in a sense, you are right. The men who felled the forest, who builded our first ditch, the first roads, have almost passed from the county. But they are held by the present generation in grateful remembrance because they were willing to face the duties of life in the age in which they lived and because they did their work in God's way, content with their surroundings, plain and colorless though they were, and trying to uplift the country.

"Do you, who live today in all this splendor of civilization, with every modern help and convenience at your hand, think you are a better man or a better woman than the men and the women of fifty years ago? If so, you are wrong. You are as good; you are different, but you are no better.

"You, too, are pioneers. As did your forefathers, it is your duty to make better the day and age in which you live and in the years to come you will be looked back upon by other generations in the same spirit in which you are assembled here today, to do reverence to these gray-haired men on the platform here before you and their comrades who have gone before them.

Happiness at Home.

"I have seen much since I left Columbia City three years ago. I don't know that I have learned much, but still I have seen much, and one of the things that impresses me most is an ague that is much more prevalent and far more dangerous than the ague which beset you early settlers when you began to make Whitley county. It is not the ague that come from politics—we'll get over that when someone gets licked this fall—but it is the ague that attacks young men and causes them to believe that the clean soil of Whitley county is dirty and breeds in them the desire to go to the city to live. For real happiness and contentment stay in Whitley county, as you will be told by the hundreds who have gone from her confines and have returned on this joyous home-coming day.

"And, speaking of Whitley county soil, I wish that I had eighty acres of it. During the thirty years I practiced law in Columbia City I took you farmers' personal notes and mortgages on your farms, if you would give them to me, but I never got the eighty acres." "That," said the governor, after the roar of laughter had subsided, "is my misfortune and not your fault."

"I believe that I am always contented. No matter what has happened to me in my life that could be taken as a misfortune, I always remember that it could have been worse had the people chosen to make it worse. Contentment is the only thing. No man can be a success if he is not content to do what he is bidden to do. The great trouble with many of us is that we are not willing to do the work that God wills we should do.

"I spent fifty-four years of life—thirty-four as a lawyer in this city—before I realized that the particular thing that I was fitted for was to hold office and draw a salary.

Value of Contentment.

"But, to return to contentment, here is a place where you can be happier than at any other spot on the earth—at least I can. Don't ever let anyone tell you that city people know more than country people, as we call ourselves here. Instead, it's the other way. I'll give you my reason for this statement. There is public opinion in Columbia City and every town of its size in the country and through the rural districts, and public opinion is the greatest of educators. In the city of Indianapolis there is no public opinion—nothing that resembles it in the least expect prejudice. In a city the size of Indianapolis the people are too busy to form opinions on questions of public interest. They arise in the morning and during a hurried breakfast scan the headlines of their favorite newspaper, taking the version of a question thus presented them as facts and they cannot be shaken from the belief they contract.

"Take for example the recent murder of a woman doctor at Indianapolis—I forgot her name—I read in one paper that the woman had been murdered and from the evidence set forth—and it is always convincing—I took that theory to be true. When I read in another journal that she had committed suicide I thought the statement so absurd that I actually became angry. And so thousands of other men in Indianapolis felt, scouting one or the other stories and refusing to give up the version they had first believed. The only sensible man in the whole lot was a fellow who wrote a communication to one of the papers, setting forth all of the facts and ending by asserting that the doctor had either been murdered or had committed suicide.

When Opion Is Fair.

"With you people in a city of this size and in the country it is different. When any matter of importance confronts you, who are free from the rush and hurry of a metropolis, are at liberty to take time to discuss it thoroughly, to view it from every angle and to arrive at what is almost invariably a fair diagnosis. This neighbors, is public opinion.

"Never in all my life have I pretended that I was right, but, as a lawyer or as a public speaker, I never faced a body of my fellow citizens but that I thought I was right, and I believe that is the way with every man and woman in Whitley county. Up here, when we disagree with another we give him credit with being honest in his convictions, and a jury or other means of getting to public opinion declares in the end which is really right. Equal and exact justice is what is obtainable in Whitley county. There are perhaps hundreds of men in this crowd this afternoon who have sat as jurors in the court house before me and who have either returned verdicts for my clients or have decided against them. And I cannot say that any of the rulings were unjust.

"Whitley county people, may you always remain as happy, as contented and as just as during the years I spent with you. A fifty-year-old tree cannot be torn up and planted in fresh ground and be the same tree, and that is my story. I lived my life with you, you were good to me—probably better than I deserve. Since I was lifted from this community three years ago and put into public life, I can truthfully say that I have never disgraced Columbia City or Whitley county.

Contentment That Counts.

"There is one thing you cannot do, whether or not you wish it—you can't get rid of me, and if any of you voted for me for governor with that end in view, you have been disappointed. I was too old when I left you and I'll return to you as often as I can, and, no matter where my body may be, my heart will ever be in Whitley county. When I think over the years that have passed—the fat ones and the lean ones—I realize that it is not honor, or glory, or renown, or money that counts; it is contentment. This is my home, abide where I may.

"Have you wondered why I never make a political speech here? Do you think I am ashamed to be a democrat? I never was while I lived among you and I am not now. I'll tell you why. During my long residence here my friends were made up of men of all parties and some of my most cherished comrades of the old days are of the opposite political faith. Politics passes, but true friendship goes on forever. Therefore, rather than risk hurting the feelings of my friends, I have refrained from discussing politics in Whitley county in the past, and I will continue to do so in the future.

"I want and will strive for good things for our country, I desire everything that is best for the sovereign state of Indiana, but most of all in this life, I want to call my home Whitley county, among you—a peaceful, contented, loyal and whole-hearted people."

The gilded balls, the sign of pawnbrokers, are the pills on the shield of the Medici family. Its founder, Cosmo, named after Saint Cosmo, the patron of physicians, joined the guild of the doctors (Medici), as every Florentine enrolled himself in one of these charitable societies. The Medici family became great money lenders and their shield with the "balls" or "pills" was placed over the door of their agents.

HENRY JONES FATALLY ILL

Veteran Engineer is at the Home of His Sister in Michigan.

HELPED BUILD THE PENNSYLVANIA LINE

And Presided at Throttle on It for Nearly a Half Century.

Henry Jones, a retired Pennsylvania engineer, is lying ill wth but little prospect of recovery at the home of his sister, Mrs. James H. Harvey, Romeo, Mich., where Mr. Jones has made his home since the death of his wife, some years ago. Mr. Jones was eighty-five years old August 7, and he was one of the first of the Pennsylvania employes to be placed on the pension list. Mr. Jones helped to build the Pennsylvania road through Indiana and Ohio and after its completion took service with the company and remained with it until he became too old to work, when he was pensioned. Before coming to the Pennsylvania Engineer Jones worked on another line and can talk interestingly of the time when he ran a locomotive on a track which consisted of wooden stringers with a piece of strap iron spiked upon them. During the entire service on the Pennsylvania Mr. Jones resided in Fort Wayne. His intimate friends always addressed him as "Hank" Jones.

BREAKS AWAY FROM AGREEMENT.

Lake Erie and Western to Run Cincinnati Excursion.

Ray Phillips, local passenger agent for the Lake Shore and Lake Erie and Western, was pleased this morning by the receipt of a letter from the passenger headquarters informing him that the L. E. & W. would run an excursion from this city to Cincinnati August 25, making the rate for the round trip the same as last year for similar occasions. The special train will leave Fort Wayne at 6:30 Saturday night, arrive at Cincinnati at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, and returning, leave Cincinnati at 6 o'clock in the evening and arrive in Fort Wayne at 11 o'clock. Mr. Phillips says that the company will take over 600 people to Cincinanti on this occasion; basing his prediction upon the many inquiries every day concerning the probabilities of an excursion to the Queen City.

ORDER TWENTY LOCOMOTIVES.

Wabash Receivers to Expend $400,000 in Equipment.

Since the Wabash road passed into the hands of receivers, less than a year ago, ninety-one locomotives have been ordered and seventy-four of them are now in service. The last order was placed last Tuesday, when the American Locomotive company was ordered to build twenty Mikado engines at a cost of $400,000. With this order the company has expended $1,725,000 for locomotives since the first of the year. When the twenty engines just ordered are in service, the tractive force of the Wabash will consist of 711 locomotives.

ROAD BLOCKED BY WRECK.

G. R. & I. Freight Train Piled Up in a Heap.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana tracks were completely blocked at Walton Junction, near Cadillac, Mich., yesterday afternoon. That being on the Northern division, no detailed account of the accident was obtainable here, but it is said that the accident was a bad one, though no reports of a fatality or of severe personal injuries have been received. Train No. 29, the southbound Northland Limited, due here at 1:05 this morning, was back of the wreck, was annulled and sent out as a section of train No. 2, passing through Fort Wayne shortly after 12 o'clock today.

INJURED IN COLLISION.

There were two bicycle collisions at the same moment on Holman street shortly before 7 o'clock this morning, one at the Barr street junction and the other at Lafayette street. In the former J. A. Christen, of the Pennsylvania fine shop, sustained injuries that have put him out of commission and badly damaged his wheel. The man who ran against him was uninjured and immediately rode away. The other collision, at Lafayette and Holman streets, was between a motorcycle and a bicycle, and neither rider was injured, though the motorcycle was put out of commission. The names of these men could not be learned.

CRIPPLED HIS VEHICLE.

Brakeman Ernest Diehl, whose marriage to Miss Ethel Erving yesterday is mentioned in the society columns of The Sentinel today, had an exasperating experience with some of his friends last night. After the wedding in the country Brakeman and Mrs. Diehl drove to the city to take dinner with a friend on Lewis street. They had a pleasant time until they came out to start for the country home of a relative, where they expected to spend the night. Then they discovered that one of the wheels had been removed from the buggy. The entire neighborhood turned out in the search for the missing wheel and finally located and replaced it on the vehicle after the bride and groom had been kept in suspense for two hours.

SET STAKES FOR FREIGHT HOUSE.

An engineering corps with Chief Engineer R. W. O'Neil at the head, has set the stakes and fixed the grades for the freight house the Lake Shore company will build in this city. John Suelzer is the contractor and he is now ready to take up his part of the work as soon as Weil brothers have removed a lot of scrap iron from the site of the old Central foundry, a part of the site of the new freight terminals.

CELEBRATING SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

Mrs. A. M. Tower left this morning for Chicago, where she will attend the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, the former her brother. Mr. Smith is round house foreman at Chicago for the Chicago and Western Indiana road. He is a native of Fort Wayne and worked some years in the Wabash shops here and at Springfield, Ill., being the master mechanic of the latter shops for awhile.

D. T. M'CABE GOES NORTH.

R. T. McCabe, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania company, and his family, will pass through the city tonight, enroute for Odon, Mich., on a pleasure trip. Their car, Pennsylvania private car No. 7503, will be brought here from Pittsburg on train No. 11, arriving at 8:20, and will be taken north over the G. R. & I. by special train.

S. E. COTTER HERE OVER NIGHT.

S. E. Cotter, general superintendent of the Wabash, spent the night in Fort Wayne. He came in in his private car at 4:45 last night and spent several hours looking over th improvements that are now in progress in the western part of the city. He left this morning for Detroit.

LAST ENGINE FROM LIMA.

Today the Lima Locomotive works completed its contract of rebuilding ten of the engines for the Wabash company, when it delivered to the railway company engine No. 2012. The Wabash has its power in very good shape and is not likely to "farm" out any more engine repairs for awhile.

FIREMAN INJURED BY FALL.

When his engine gave an unexpected lurch last Tuesday, Fireman A. C. Seery was thrown backwards, striking against a chunk of coal. His hips and back were bruised and sprained and he has been unable to work since, though the injury is not considered serious.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

John Palpo took employment at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning.

R. J. Fisher went to Dayton, Ohio, last night on business for the Bass Foundry and Machine works.

S. A. Haas, a pipefitter, and E. Bell, a boilermaker, at the Pennsylvania shops, are sick and off duty.

E. Seip is absent from work in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop on account of the illness of his wife.

Yard Engineer R. E. Schuler, of the Pennsylvania, has taken a ten days' vacation, which he will spend out of the city.

H. E. Lonergan and P. G. Manock, painters in the Pennsylvania shops, are taking a lay off to look after some private business.

A large stationary engine cylinder left the Bass works this morning for Nashville, Tenn. It was consigned to the Tennessee Cotton Oil company.

E. G. Reed has resigned his position as revising clerk at the Nickel Plate freight house to accept a position as a bookkeeper with Bash & Co.

Chief Clerk W. L. Wilt, of the Pennsylvania motive power office, and Division Storekeeper C. P. Cherry are at Carp Lake, Mich., for a few days fishing.

A. P. Richardson, assistant chief clerk of the Pennsylvania motive power office, has returned from Pittsburg, where he went a day or two ago on business for the company.

C. W. Hixon, from Signal Engineer McC. Grafton's office at Pittsburg, is here inspecting the Pennsylvania signals. Mr. Hixon formerly resided in Fort Wayne and is pretty well known to the Pennsylvania employes.

Miss Agnes Racht, an attendant in the Pennsylvania lines restaurant, suffered from heat prostration yesterday afternoon while in a moving picture show. She was removed and taken home in a taxicab and soon revived.

John W. Reynolds resumed his clerical duties in the office of Foreman B. F. Sarver, at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop. He spent a week at Lake Chapman and later several days in Chicago with friends. Mrs. Reynolds was with her husband.

Charles Bradley, the Fort Wayne Electric works employe who was badly hurt by being caught between shifting metal sheets in a car at the works two or three days ago, is said to be doing nicely at the hospital and will recover.

R. J. Miller, a clerk at the Pennsylvania round house office, will enter upon a vacation next Monday, when he will leave for the east to stay two weeks. He will spend the greater portion of the time at Cleveland, but will also visit at Pittsburg and Niagara Falls.

G. N. Rhodes, Pennsylvania passenger flagman, is making arrangements to leave August 26 for Seattle, Wash., to join his wife and bring her home. Mrs. Rhodes went into a sanitarium at Seattle June 1 for treatment for rheumatism and has been practically cured.

Next Monday Machinists Frank Schille, John L. Barry and R. Langon, of the Pennsylvania air brake room, will enter upon a two weeks' vacation, which they will spend at the lakes. Machinist Charles A. Herr, jr., will also enter upon a vacation next Monday, when he will go to Chicago to spend a week with relatives.

MANY HURT IN RUNAWAY.

Hayrack Party at Lafayette Church Picnic Comes to Grief.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 16.—More than a dozen women, members of the German Evangelical church, who were on their way to a congregational picnic, were injured in a runaway south of here today. About forty persons were making the trip on a hayrack. The horses became frightened and ran wildly, scattering the women along the road for a quarter of a mile. The wagon struck a culvert and several were thrown down an embankment.

The injured were carried into a farm house and half the doctors in the city answered the call as it was reported that some were fatally injured. None of the injured is said to be fatally hurt.

Officials Say Evils May Be Corrected by Postal Order.

PLAN IS COMMENDED

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 16.—News from Washington that Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided to place the general delivery service under closer surveillance is received with considerable satisfaction by the postoffice officials.

"I am satisfied that at least 75 per cent. of the general delivery business is not what could be considered as legitimate," said Assistant Postmaster Woodard.

"From close inspection of what goes on at different postoffices, we have become satisfied that only 17 per cent. of the general delivery business is legitimate," said Hugh B. Mills, of the secret service.

"I do not believe that more than 10 per cent. of the general delivery business would pass muster," said John M. Masten, superintendent of the fourteenth division of the railway mail service. "Some time ago they tried to put the clamps on at Chicago, but there was a big roar and it was abandoned. They required those desiring to avail themselves of that service to fill out blanks. Many of them started in to comply readily enough, and wrote their names and addresses, but when they found questions as to where they expected mail from, and why they wanted to use the general delivery instead of having mail delivered at their residences or places of business, they made a complaint.

"There are a great many married persons who are carrying on a correspondence that they wish to keep secret. There are many young folk who use this part of the postal service to maintain a correspondence that they are unwilling for their parents to know about. Then there are some green goods operators and other frauds who use the general delivery to better avoid discovery. I am glad that the department is going to take cognizance of the situation and take steps to put a stop to some of this business."

SOLDIER POET VERY VERSATILE

Col. C. N. Gardner Has Long List of Unusual Accomplishments.

BACK FROM ARCTIC

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—Col. Cornelius N. Gardener, soldier, statesman, blacksmith, poet, agriculturalist, shoemaker, philanthropist, carver, lecturer, linguist, world traveler and, incidentally, commanding officer of the Sixteenth infantry, has recently arrived here with his regiment on the transport Sheridan. His command will probably be stationed at the Presidio for three or four years, but the colonel will retire from active service in the fall of 1913.

COL. C. N. GARDENER.

Colonel Gardener was the first civil governor of the province of Tayabas, P. I. A fund was raised to erect a monument in the colonel's memory, but the soldier poet persuaded his admirers to postpone the honor for a few years.

The colonel has fought Indians, Spaniards, yellow fever and all sorts of other things.

He makes his children's toys, does odd bits of plumbing, painting and carpentering, and now and again turns out snatches of poetry for his own amusement and the edification of others.

He speaks Dutch, French, Spanish, Italian and German, has a more than ordinary knowledge of the classics, is a student of romance, literature and is a writer and speaker on civil government.

The colonel, on his arrival, was still suffering from bronchitis, which he contracted from exposure among the icefloes in Bering straits.

The colonel's troops have been stationed in Alaska to preserve order and keep up the telegraph lines, which are owned by the government.

Of the trip out, the colonel said: "The transport left a month earlier than is customary and arrived in the Arctic waters in June, the most dangerous time of the year, because of the ice that is floating in the Bering sea.

"The regiment was distributed at five different points from Fort Seward, at Skagway, to St. Michael, above Nome, and the transport had to make these places to pick up the outcoming troops and leave those that were relieving us.

"Progress through the ice was extremely perilous. It took seven days to go 125 miles. There was constant danger of the frail sides of the ship being crushed by the ice pack and had the wind come up and set the ice in motion, there is no doubt that the vessel would have been lost and of the 1,100 souls on board none would have lived to tell the tale."

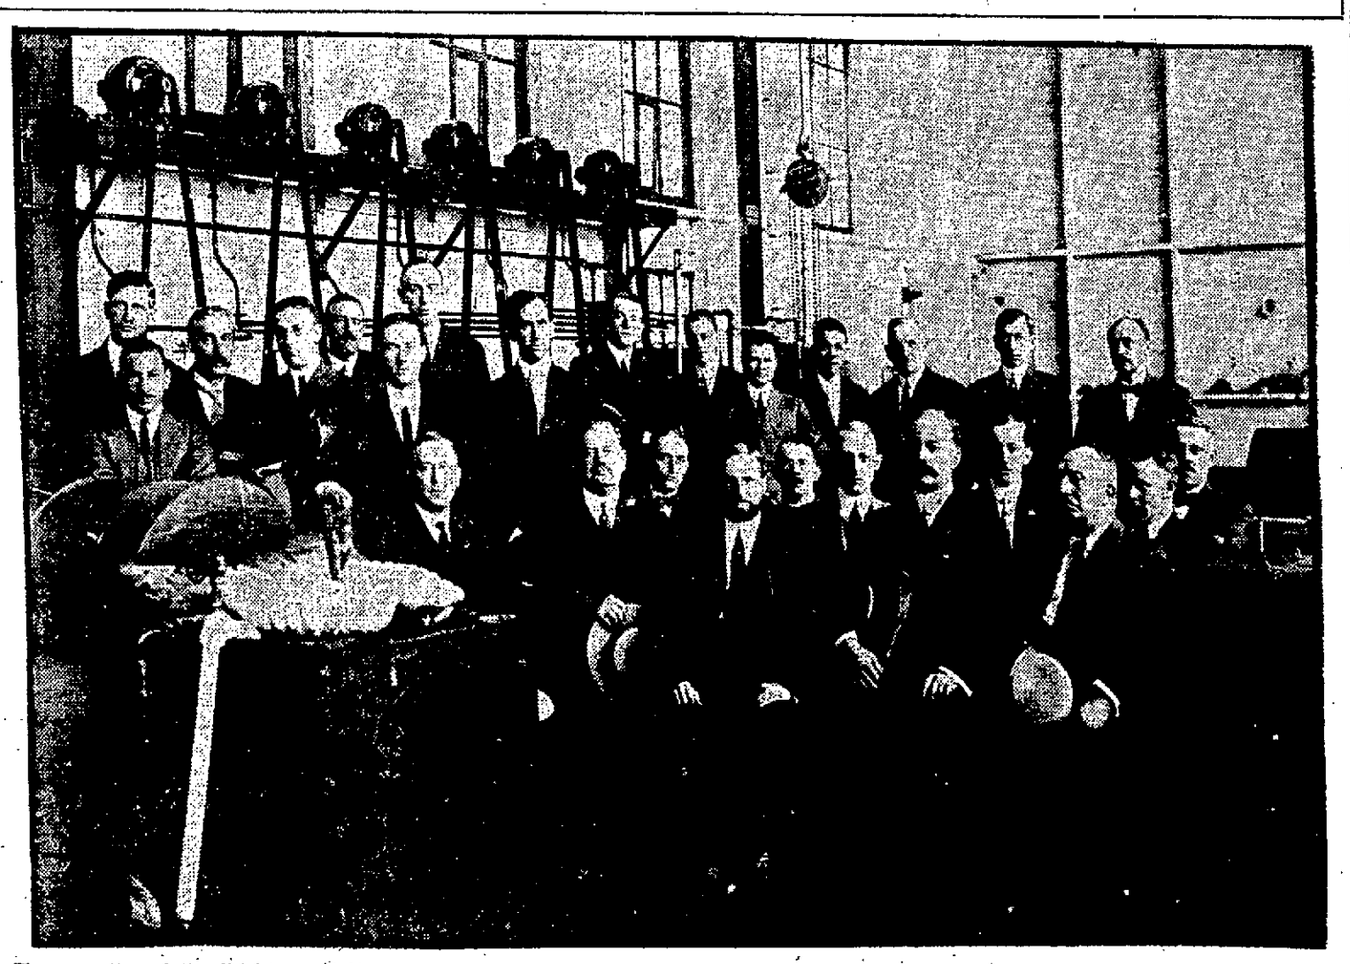
MEN WHO WILL HANDLE THE AUDIFFREN-SINGRUN REFRIGERATING MACHINE COMPANY'S BUSINESS.



The convention of the district managers of the H. W. Johns-Manville company, of New York, and the officials of the Audiffren-Singrun Refrigerating Machine company in the assembly hall at the Fort Wayne electric works last Tuesday and Wednesday was of vastly more importance to the business and industrial interests of Fort Wayne than the casual observer would suppose. In fact it was a part of a business project that is bound to expand until it develops an industry that will be among the great employers of skilled and common labor in Fort Wayne.

Last winter a company was organized to take over the interests of the inventor of an ice making machine which it is believed will bring about a great revolution in artificial ice production. Before negotiating the deal with the inventors the company sent J. J. Wood, of the Fort Wayne Electric company, to investigate the machine and pass upon its merits. As a result of his investigations, the deal was closed and Mr. Wood immediately commenced a series of experiments at the Electric works, which have resulted in improvements in the ice-making machine and it is now declared to be perfect. The Audiffren-Singrun Refrigerating Machine company then engaged the Fort Wayne Electric works to manufacture all of the ice machines to be sold in the United States and possessions and soon afterwards placed the exclusive sale privilege with the H. W. Johns-Manville company, one of the largest selling companies in the United States, having over 400 agencies.

The building of the machines has been in progress at the Fort Wayne Electric works since last fall and production has reached a point where the selling company must get busy. With the idea of inaugurating a sales campaign, the Johns-Manville company and the Audiffren-Singrun company called the convention for the purpose of planning the campaign. Most of the district managers in the central states were gathered here in order that they might familiarize themselves with the mechanism of the ice machine and to exchange ideas about the most effective manner of bringing it into public notice in the markets of America. T. J. Lyman, district manager at Milwaukee, one of the most successful sales managers in the country, was chairman at the session of the convention. The meeting closed Wednesday at noon and those from out of the city who participated in it soon left for their respective homes. It was the sentiment of all at the meeting that the Audiffren-Singrun ice machine was going to be a great seller and all of the district managers were enthusiastic in the matter and anxious to get it in the hands of their salesmen as soon as possible. This ice machine is now being built in four sizes, ranging from one-fifth to two tons daily capacity at a nominal cost.

While the convention was called for the purposes mentioned in the foregoing lines, there were some social features connected with it which brought the men in closer touch with each other. Included in these were a dinner at the hotel Anthony Tuesday and a banquet at the Fort Wayne Country club Tuesday night. At the latter G. V. S. Michaelis was the toastmaster and responses were made by T. J. Lyman, A. A. Serra, J. E. Meek, H. O. Herrick, T. G. Younglove, H. E. Crane, E. A. Barnes, Harry Gillett, T. M. Myer and L. S. Nold. The convention closed Wednesday afternoon and those from out of the city who participated in it soon left for their respective homes.

Just before the opening of the business session Wednesday morning the officials of the ice machine company, the district managers of the selling company and the employes of the Fort Wayne Electric works who are more or less directly connected with the manufacturing part of the business, posed in the factory for a picture taken by Photographer George Gawehn, of the Electric works, and the half-tone above is a reproduction of it. The personnel of the group is as follows: Seated in front row, reading from left to right—H. O. Herrick, of Detroit; J. E. Meek, of New York; R. J. Stewart, of Chicago; T. J. Lyman, of Milwaukee; A. G. Cutting, of Pittsburg; R. F. Massa, of New York; G. V. S. Michaelis, of New York; R. S. Hoyt, of Milwaukee; T. G. Younglove, of Chicago; G. A. Nichol, of New York, and C. E. Murphy, of Indianapolis. Standing in the rear, left to right—H. E. Crane, Fort Wayne; Luis de Florez, of New York; E. A. Barnes, of Fort Wayne; Henry Gillett, sr., of Cleveland; C. E. Rittenhaus, of New York; E. E. Jackson, of Fort Wayne; William Mulheron, of New York; T. M. Myer, of Fort Wayne; E. S. Buck, of Fort Wayne; J. Fox, of Fort Wayne; H. W. McKinley, of Cleveland; Harry Gillett, jr., of Cleveland; B. W. Cornell, of Lagrange; F. H. Devine, of New York, and August Kayser, of Fort Wayne.

You have to broil a beefsteak
You have to boil a ham,
You have to fry a white fish
And roast a leg of lamb.
But when a package of Post Toasties
Is lying on the shelf,
No fry, no broil, no roast, no boil,
Just go and help yourself.

TRADITION

GERMAN AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK

¶ Tradition may serve all right as a mile post, but it is no good as a guide post. It is faced toward the past. It never leads and never advances.

¶ Tradition has been defined as "Salvation through ossification, a fetter for the foolish, a clock that tells what time it WAS, a method of holding back the many while some one does the thing which they declared impossible."

¶ This bank has no traditions. It is not a bank of yesterday, but a bank of today and tomorrow. It is a growing bank, but unlike growing potatoes the best part of it is not underground. It is not a "has been," it is an "isser."

¶ It has a savings department where 4 per cent is paid on book accounts.

DARROW'S FATE WITH JURY SOON

Tears Course Down Faces as Accused Man Ends His Plea.

LONG TRIAL ENDING

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16.—With the conclusion of District Attorney John Frederick's argument to the jury today in the trial of Clarence S. Darrow under indictment for bribery of a McNamara juror, it is expected that Judge Hutton would read his instructions to the jury and that body would retire to deliberate upon a verdict. More than 200 instructions to the jury were handed to the court by both prosecutions and defense and while it was not expected that all of these would be considered it was learned that the court's instructions would be lengthy and that probably two hours would be consumed in the reading.

The possibility of a verdict being reached some time tonight was variously commented on by those connected with the trial but few, however were of the opinion that a report would be made before tomorrow.

Two word portraits of Clarence S. Darrow, wholly different, were held before the jury yesterday.

The first, by Darrow himself, at the close of a remarkable plea in his own behalf, painted him as the life long friend of the poor and oppressed, ready to sacrifice himself to better their condition.

The other, drawn at the beginning of the final argument by District Attorney John D. Fredericks, presented Darrow as an enemy of society, "inciting class hatred and shedding maudlin tears of sympathy for murderers and dynamiters."

Jurors Weep as Darrow Pleads.

Darrow's final plea was one of the most masterly pleas ever heard in an American court. Two jurors, numbers 7 and 11, who have been regarded ever since the opening of the trial as opposed to Darrow, but when the accused attorney concluded his address the two men were sobbing aloud, gulping and frankly wiped their eyes, as was every one else in the courtroom, including Judge Hutton and Darrow himself. His conclusion was:

"Life is a game of whist, and the cards are shuffled by a devil. I do not like the way the cards are shuffled, but I like the game, and will sit up all night and take a hand and then play the best I can. I have tried to play honestly, and will continue to play it that way to the end, whatever that end may be.

"Gentlemen, I came here a stranger, but in no other place have I found greater kindness or greater love toward a stranger than I have here. Here, in my great disaster, hands have been outstretched to help me, words of sym- and words of cheer have bolstered my pathy have been poured into my ears spirit.

Friend of Every Living Man.

"I know my life and I know what I have done. It has not been perfect. It has been human. I have tried to be the friends ofevery man living, and I have no malice in my heart. I have a heart full of love for my fellow man. There are some in this world who regard my name as a byword and reproach. There are others who would destroy me. I have enemies and powerful ones, too. They are honest men, but they misunderstand me.

"If you should convict me—I know you will not—but if you should, there are people who will lauid your act; but if in your judgment and in the name of humanity, you believe me innocent, and return a verdict of not guilty—and I know you will—the news will be flashed across the high mountain peaks to the east, and there are thousands and tens of thousands, aye millions of weak, poor and helpless men, women and children who will thank you for freeing me. I know of thousands of workingmen who are praying for my success—those who believe in me and are looking to this jury to vindicate me and my name. Gentlemen, I thank you."

Dodges Oratory to Get Facts.

When Prosecutor Fredericks began the closing argument for the state he said he would not attempt to compete in oratory with Darrow, whose persuasiv eloquence and pathetic pleas had caused jury, court officials and spectators to weep.

"You have listened," said Fredericks, "to one of the most marvelous address. i or orations ever delivered in any court room when you heard Mr. Darrow. But that only reflects upon the ability of the man and has mighty little to do with his guilt or innocence.

"His story teaches us that the most brainy men have gone wrong. This defendant's unfortunate predicament is the result of those peculiar philosophical views which go to make up his very nature. His insidious hand entered into bribery from the very beginning of the McNamara case. Bribery is in his very nature. He had the idea that there was no integrity that could not be bought."

Calls Darrow Guilty.

After reciting the substance of the principal evidence introduced by the state, Fredericks declared no one but Darrow could have been the man who provided the bribe money. He scouted the theory that the Times dynamiters did not intend to do murder by quoting from a statement said to have been made by J. B. McNamara, in which he was reported to have expressed regret that he did not kill Harry Chandler, the general manager of the Times.

Mr. Fredericks lauded W. J. Burns as "having done more during the last ten years to uphold the cause of civic righteousness, civic decency and civic honesty than any othehr man in America."

BELIEVE-ME'S TO PLAY O-YOU'S

Some Interesting Events for the Fort Wayne Country Club.

GOOD TENNIS ON TAP

On account of the first flight in the Kekionga handicap tomorrow afternoon, and the match play between the "O-You's" and the "Believe Me's" there will be no four ball matches at the Fort Wayne Country club tomorrow afternoon. Fourteen golfers who qualified last Saturday for the Kekionga trophy will play the first flight and will start on the course before 2 o'clock, to make way for the ex-president's play. Arthur Pickard will captain the "O-You's" and Harry G. Hogan will attempt to lead the "Believe-Me's" to victory.

No one will be left out who wishes to play in the latter event and all players at the first tee by 2:30 o'clock will be selected first. The losing team is to act as host to the victors after the play at the club house.

The second flight of the Kekionga handicap will be played August 24 and the finals will occur on September 7.

Some Good Tennis.

It is expected that a great crowd will visit the Country club tomorrow for the purpose of witnessing the mixed tennis doubles. The play is listed as one day's tournament and players will be allowed to choose their own partners. D. B. Ninde and Edward G. Hoffman have been named to captain the players. One team is to wear yellow ribbons and the other blue ribbons. The losing team is to act as host at dinner, which will be followed in the evening by dancing. A large number of enthusiastic rooters will also be supplied with team ribbons and will undoubtedly add interest to the play.

George Bailhe and Dr. Miles F. Porter, jr., of this city, are at Winona this week participating in the tennis tournament there. Both are among the best players in northern Indiana, and it is expected that Candor, of Hamilton, O., and Porter will get together in the finals. Andrews and Candor, of Ohio, who won the doubles in the northern Indiana tournament are playing good tennis at Winona this week.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty and makes it grow.

VENETIAN NIGHT GLOW OF BEAUTY

Sixth Annual Water Fete at Winona Lake is a Triumph.

AWARDS ARE MADE

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 16.—At the close of the gorgeously beautiful water carnival last evening, W. R. Wood, of Winona; F. F. Fribley, of Bourbon, and J. H. Jones, of Warsaw, constituting the board of judges, made the following awards in the Venetian night fete:

Oriental floats, are school designs, Miss Roda Rellick, Indianapolis, design tiger lily; first in schools, Winona College of Agriculture; first in comic class, barn dance, designed by Miss Frances Toy, Winona Lake.

It was Winona's sixth annual Venetian night. The first was given six years ago, when Mrs. R. L. Spinning was given full authority to go ahead with arrangements for the pageant. She worked out the plans for the first water carnival, having thirteen little boats that were gaily decorated and were paraded through the bay in front of the Winona hotel. There were no seating arrangements of any pretense, but the guests sat on cushions and boxes along the shore and watched the parade.

It was not the parade itself, but the big idea back of it that resulted in the established institution of Venetian night. Two thousand saw the first pagent; ten times that number were present five years after to see the great event that grew out of that little start.

The little bay in front of the hotel was found inadequate for the display, and the place of holding the parade was moved to the southward of the island and for one year fireworks were made a part of the display. Later the place for holding Venetian night was changed to the McDonald island lagoon.

The multiplicity of preparations were more than Mrs. Spinning could take care of alone, and Captain Frank B. Pine, a Mardi Gras builder, was interested and has built and planned a large part of the parade ever since. Mrs. Spinning has taken a general supervision and worked up the plot of the professional part of the display and taken full charge of the preparations for the amateur part of the spectacle.

The professional part of this year's spectacle was taken from Rider Haggard's novel, "Cleopatra," and the lagoon separating McDonald island from the mainland was used.

This lagoon represented the River Nile, and on it and at a large temple erected on the island side, the meeting of Cleopatra and Mark Antony was reproduced.

The lagoon was splendidly lighted, and four forty-foot barges carried those who took part in acting the parts.

After this part of the entertainment came what was known as "Treasures of the Earth"—a parade of seven floats, drawn through the water by all manner of animals and giant insects. One of these was "Cloudland," and the float was pulled through the water by a bird, and the chariot on the float seemed supported by great dragons. Another, "The Ocean Blue" was pulled by silver and gold fish. "The Dragon World" was drawn along by three great dragon flies, and the couch on this float being supported and protected by a dragon thirty feet long. Swans pulled two floats and another was harnessed to immense butterflies.

The last parade was that of the amateur floats, which were divided into four classes, the comics, the school floats and beauty floats and the best Oriental design. It was this parade that was competitive, and the judges chose from each class what was considered the best, and a prize to the best. The prizes were $10 each for the best in every class but the Oriental design, and $20 for that.

Woman Gains Divorce Because Her Mubby Got Carpets Muddy.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 16.—Because her husband threw her out of bed and refused to wipe his muddy boots on the mat before the door of their home, Mrs. Frances A. Allen obtained a divorce from Newton R. Allen in the County court. "It was quite impossible for me to compel my husband to remove the mud from his shoes," Mrs. Allen informed the court, "because re was much bigger than I. The dust and dirt which accumulated on my carpets occasioned me positive agony." Mrs. Allen also said that her husband frequently came home in an intoxicated condition and spit tobacco juice in her face. The man deserted her ten years ago, she said.

TURNED MAIL WAGON OVER.

The United States mail wagon was struck by a street car just south of the Calhoun street viaduct Thursday evening shortly before 9 o'clock, and the driver, Jacob Parker, 1410 Spy Run avenue, was thrown out onto the street, the wagon was overturned and the horse thrown down. However, no serious injuries resulted, as Mr. Parker was able to continue his work through the night and the horse and wagon were kept in service.

BIRTH OF PRINCE ENDS GYPSY WAR

Peach in Two Camps After Feud of Two Years in New York.

IT IS ALL SETTLED

New York, Aug. 16.—A feud which existed between the Lucas and Stevens tribes of gypsies for two years has been settled, and the dove of peace looked down upon the encampment, one at White Plains avenue and Pelham parkway, and the other at Morris Park avenue and Lebanon street. At the latter camp Queen Lucia rules a tribe of fifty, while King Stevens reigns at the White Plains avenue camp.

It was the arrival of a baby prince in the Lucas camp that buried the hatchet and started the pipe of peace smoking. Princess Mary, mother of the future ruler of the Lucas tribe, is the daughter of King Stevens, and he could not resist the baby cries that were borne by the breeze from the Lucas camp, a block away. He went over to investigate. It was the first time he had been in the enemy's camp since last September, when he went there to beat his son-in-law. The entire family was taken to the Morrisania court at that time. But all this has been forgotten now and the war has been declared off.

The two tribes left England several years ago for a tour of the United States, Mexico and Canada. They were friends then and agreed to hold a reunion in New York when their travels were completed. They selected White Plains avenue and Pelham Parkway as the place to pitch the festal camp. This was two years ago and the reunion festivities included the marriage of Princess Mary, of the Stevens tribe, to Prince Tom, of the Lucas band. There was great rejoicing and toasts were drunk to eternal friendship. But soon there was nagging and the white dove soared away beyond the clouds and the hatchet was dug up.

A bitter warfare followed. The tribes liked the Bronx and ceased their wandering and established permanent camps there. Although the camps were only a block apart, there was no intercourse, except on such occasions when King Stevens went over to the Lucas trieb to beat up his son-in-law, or for some other cheerful purpose.

But the birth of Prince Tremont, as the baby is called, because he was born at Tremont and Webster avenue, brought back the white dove, and it has built a permanent nest in the largest tree between the two camps.

Kinf Stevens' pride at becoming a grandfather was so great that he ordered a prolonged celebration. Lights gleamed among the trees about Princess Mary's tent, gypsies moved about in gala attire and soft music of guitar and mandolin told that war had been turned into a festival.

POLITICS SPLIT SCHOOL FACULTY

Eight Resignations Are Pending According to Rumor.

MANY DEFEND VIEWS

Philadelphia, Aug. 16.—It is asserted on reliable authority that national political issues have entered university life to such an extent as to cause serious dissensions in the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, where nearly every day new rumors crop out of the dropping or pending resignation of some professor or instructor.

The instructors are said to have divided themselves into camps of "conservatives" and "progressives." Both sides are really radicals and in the privacy of the university and among themselves are engaging in bitter personalities.

Dr. William Draper Lewis, dean of the law school, is said to have brought the trouble to a head when he openly advocated Colonel Roosevelt's theory as to recall of judicial decisions. After this announcement it was said openly, but in whispers, that the resignation of Dean Lewis would be demanded. Other "progressives" rallied to the support of the dean. They declared the board of trustees would scarcely make an issue of the politics of an instructor to the extent of demanding his resignation. The board decided that Dean Lewis should remain in his present position until after the presidential election at least.

"Progressives" Strike Back.

The "progressives" then called attention to the fact that Edgar Fahs Smith, provost of the university, allowed his name to go before the voters as a Taft candidate to the republican national convention

From the viewpoint of the public the trouble at the university ended at that point, but those on the inside say the controversy has become so strenuous that both sides are demanding complete surrender or nothing.

The "progressives" have carried the fight right into university life, declaring thta they have the right to change the system of teaching and to teach under what they term twentieth century methods. The "conservatives," on the other hand, declare that old ideas must prevail.

Provost Smith, so the story goes, has withdrawn his gage of battle and is letting the other members of the faculty fight it out. The board of trustees are said to be siding with the "conservatives." Suggestions as to the pending resignation of various professors are also suspected of coming from board members. To date there have been eight of these "pending resignations." Neither the men most vitally interested nor Provost Smith will discuss the rumors.

Nearing an Arden Colonist.

The "conservatives" have been heard to call Professor Scott Nearing a socialist and to demand that he keep his "socialistic ideas" to himself. He has answered that he would talk as much as he pleased.

"I am a progressive along educational lines," said Nearing, "and I propose to continue to be a progressive along those lines. National political issues have nothing to do with my views. I had them before this campaign started and I will still have them after it ends."

Nearing has numerous supporters. He makes his home part of the year at the single tax colony of Arden, where he propounds his views.

So serious has the breach at the university become, according to the best information obtainable, that the Alumni association is about to take a hand with the hope that the political controversy will cease. It is asserted that every instructor in the school, with the exception of Provost Smtih, is on one side or the other.

NOT LIKELY TO SPOIL SCENE

Actor Willing to Guarantee He Would Make Decent Corpse as the Dead Julius Caesar.

Speculation is rife along the New York Rialto as to whether or not in William Faversham's production of "Julius Caesar" Fuller Mellish, who has been cast for the part of Caesar, will actually appear in the oration scene. This is because of a quippant retort of Sir Herbert Tree, which has just found its way across the Atlantic.

Tree is quite a stickler for detail, and although it is generally customary for the dead Caesar to be represented in the oration scene by a dummy, Tree, in his recent revival of the Roman drama, insisted that the actor cast for Caesar should actually appear upon the bier.

The Caesar of the play demurred, averring that he was subject to colds and that the drafts upon the stage might cause him to sneeze, thus spoiling the effect of the scene, to which Tree quickly and dryly retorted, "Never mind; in that case you'd be playing 'Julius Chaesar.'"

To Mr. Faversham's solicitous inquiries Mr. Mellish has hastened to reply that he rarely sneezes, so the stage director can feel assured of a free rein.

THE THIN AND WEAK

Easy Way for Them to Get Strong and Fat.

To thin and weak Meyer Bros. Co. has a word to say. Let them use Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food, that is now so popular, and they will soon be plump and rosy.

Samose is not an ordinary medicine; it is a flesh-forming food that is adapted to the most delicate. Its tonic effect gives strength and health so that after its use for a short time, all the flesh and fat producing elements in the food will be easily assimilated and retained by the body.

The large sale Druggists Meyer Bros. Co. have had on Samose since they first introduced it in Fort Wayne and the wonderful results following its use have made them such enthusiastic believers in its great merits that they give their personal guarantee to refund the money if Samose does not make thin people fat and restore strength and health.

When a gain in weight is noticed after Samose has been used for a week or ten days, and health has improved, and you notice yourself growing stronger, you certainly should feel more than satisfied with what you have received from the small cost of 50c.

WIFE 17, TWICE A MOTHER.

Mrs. Morris Breaks All Records in East St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Anna Florence Brown Morris, of East St. Louis, possesses the distinction of being the youngest woman in that city who is twice a mother. Although barely 17 years old, Mrs. Morris' second child, a strong, healthy boy, has been born. Her first child, also a boy, is 22 months old.

Mrs. Morris' husband, Henry, a farmer and truck gardener, is only a little more than 20 years old, and will not be able to vote at the coming election. Morris and his bride make their home with the young woman's mother, at 1123 North Second street. They have called their second child Francis Joseph.

As he sat on a tombstone in the churchyard the old caretaker of an episcopal church dismissed as trival the question of his proper title "The good old creed keeps the same for all," he said, "though they may change the words they use. Look at me; here I used to be the janitor. Then we had a parson who called me the sextant. Dr. Thirdly gave me the name of virgin And the young man we've got now says I'm the sacrilege."

He Fought and "Got" Federal Judge Hanford.

Man Who Forced Him From the Bench Took His Professional Life in His Hands When He Bucked Powers Behind Defense of Hanford—But He Won.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 16.—Two federal judges in the history of the nation have preceded Judge C. H. Hanford off the bench by the impeachment route. It is somewhat of a herculean task to accomplish an impeachment, John H. Perry, a young Seattle attorney, would tell you without boast or exaggeration.

Perry is the Hercules in the Hanford case. He is an extraordinary kind of a Hercules. He is a very young giant for one thing. He is only thirty. Physically, he weighs about 150 and he lacks several inches to being six feet tall. This giant, too, is a very affable sort, good-natured and likable. A native of Virginia, he possesses the courtesy of the south. He smiles and he makes friends.

He needed all these when he filed eight specific charges with the congress of the United States against Judge C. H. Hanford, and thus courted lasting ostracism if not more direct persecution by the interests if he should have failed.

Perry had the courage to go through with his fight—and he won. He did not base his charges on "guess" work. He had his facts well in hand. For eleven months he gathered his evidence before he filed his charges. He went about it quietly, but with determination. He was posted on the moves of the opposition and was prepared to meet any attack. "Big business" did not stop him with its "steam-rollered" resolutions. Threats of ostracism were hurled at him, but he never batted an eye. Promises of favor if he should drop the proceedings did not tempt him. Perry was not to be sidetracked.

Then came the Leonard Olsson disfranchisement decision by Judge Hanford, and Congressman Victor Berger filed impeachment charges. Perry, however, did not let Berger's complaint interfere with his own carefully laid plans. He presented his charges separately to the judiciary committee and then immediately started to get his witnesses ready.

JOHN H. PERRY.

And so, when the congressional committee came to Seattle to act in the nature of a grand jury, it turned to Perry—and Perry delivered the goods.

He gave the investigators the names of the witnesses. He told them how and where to reach them. He told them of the fears and threats and intimidations that would cause material witnesses to fight shy of testifying. And it was Perry who was denounced by the corporate-controlled and Hanfordized press. It was Perry who was feared more than Berger.

It was the mass of facts in Perry's possession which worried Hanford and finally drove him to resign.

Perry was formerly deputy prosecuting attorney in Seattle. And he had as thorough a case prepared against Judge Hanford as ever he had against the most lowly criminal. He was educated at the Universities of Virginia and Washington and at Columbia college. For two years Perry had been counsel for the Seattle Star, the newspaper that launched the impeachment campaign against Hanford.

Perry practically staked his career when he tackled Judge Hanford, but he realize the size of the job. Today he ranks with the foremost lawyers in the state. And that is no small achievement for a man of thirty.

The First Climbers.

A Munich paper has been searching the records of history to discover who were the first mountain climbers. It gives the palm to Moses and his ascent of Mount Sinai, and rules out Noah for his ascent of Mount Ararat because he made it in a boat. There is sufficient evidence to show that the ancients thought mountain climbing sheer madness.

No one in the time of Horace or Polybius wanted to go climbing for a summer holiday. A Chinese emperor in the seventh century was the first to make climbing fashionable in the east. But the first true tourists in Europe seem to have been Dante, Petrarch and Leonard. Then came the Emperor Maximilian I., who used to hunt in the mountains near Innsbruck, and after him Conrad von Gesner and Josias Simler explored the Swiss mountains. But climbing for pleasure such as we know it today was not thought of until quite recently.—Westminster Gazette.

Hints to Brides.

If a wife or prospective bride wishes to have a happy married life, she may rest assured that her desires will be gratified if she bears in mind the following "don'ts:"

Don't marry a man for a living, but for love. Don't overdress, or the reverse. Common sense is better than style. Never, when married, get the idea that the way to run a house is to run away from it, or that it is right to lecture your neighbors on how to bring up their children, while you are neglecting your own.

Don't nag. Nothing is so likely to send your husband out of the house as that.

CAN YOU READ MINDS? GREAT EXPERT TELLS HOW TO LEARN.

SIR OLIVER LODGE.

Sir Oliver Lodge, World's Most Famous Psychologist, Tells Readers of The Sentinel How to Experiment at Mental Telepathy.

London, Aug. 16.—In the quest for interesting and illuminating discoveries in the art of mind reading, Sir Oliver Lodge gives the following tests, or experiments, for readers of The Sentinel.

He asks that everybody try at least one of these experiments.

An easy beginning suggested is this: Send the percipient, or mind reader, out of the room, while the others choose some object, person or color upon which they will concentrate their thoughts. Call in the experimenting mind reader. Can he tell what the rest of the party are thinking about? If he can, and there has been no agreement beforehand, he has been able to read your minds.

The mind reader blindfolds himself (the better to concentrate his mind); another person draws on a card something simple, like a cross or a circle at first. The card is held in front of the reader, but with the blank side toward him; the other gazes intently at the figure on the card, concentrating his mind upon it. Can the mind reader describe the figure? A better way is to place a tablet in the mind reader's hand and allow him to draw the outlines of what he sees. If he can do that, he is making fairly good progress as a mind reader.

The same experiment may be made holding any small object instead of a card, but care must be taken to have the object safely screened from the reader, but fully in sight of the person conducting the test, and it must be his sole subject of thought.

Try conveying the thought of "taste." Place something in your mouth—anything especially bitter or sweet. Can the reader taste it, too?

Numerous other simple experiments will suggest themselves to you as you proceed. You need not confine your experiments to one person; you may exchange places and do the thought reading yourself; you may even experiment with persons you do not know, trying to read their minds, or trying to convey to their minds the thoughts you are thinking. This is done more frequently than the average person imagines.

Then attempt distance reading. Try the same or similar experiments, having the reader in an adjoining room. If successful, make the distance greater and greater, until you reach a limit. That may be half way around the earth, and it may be but a city block.

A good test would be for husband and wife to make arrangements to give a few moments during the day, the husband at his work, the wife in the home, to mind reading experiments, thinking deeply about each other, placing their minds in readiness to receive thought messages. When they meet at the supper table they may recall their thoughts at that particular time of the day and compare notes. Like experiments could be made between any two persons, two women or a mother and her child, and could in time be tried over greater distances—say, for instance, when one is out of town.

A vast amount of ill health is due to impaired digestion. When the stomach fails to perform its functons properly the whole system becomes deranged. MAGGIE MILGATES at a SUMMER RESORT

DIAGRAM.

Winning a Vacation Prize as the Most Popular Pantsmaker, a Factory Girl Writes Home About the People She Meets.

THE OLD WALRUS.

Dear Folks: How hard it is to size up people just by seeing them when they ain't really keyed up. Never again will I take snap judgment. I wish you could see a certain tottering old pappy guy like I saw him, before and after.

"The first time I makes him," I thought, "Why does that man come here to die?" He was huddled on a bench in the hotel grounds letting the morning sun soak into him like he was praying for it to save his last spark of life. He was wrapped up in a gray blanket, besides the protection of his whiskers. At that moment he looked like between 110 and 120 years old. If I was an undertaker I would have quick handed him my catalogue.

Today I was out in the briny on a rock—away out. Sudden like I heard a splashing behind me. And when I looked, honest to goodness, I thought it was a walrus. That's what it resembled, but it was my old friend, the ancient all-in kid. He'd got properly warmed up. Think of him away out there, and some current. I wanted to give him a hand so he could come on the rock and get rested, but he said he might stop on his way back. He's the champion swimmer along this beach.

So I guess old Father Neptune isn't such a josh after all.

Yours, there like a mermaid,
MAGGIE.

AFFECTED HISTORY OF WORLD

Influence of Jean Jacques Rousseau May Be Traced to Trivial Incident in Boyhood.

In a village school in Boissey, Switzerland, one day in the first quarter of the eighteenth century, Jean Jacques Rousseau, then a ten-year-old boy, was severely chastised because he was suspected of having broken teeth in a comb which did not belong to him. He was innocent, and the most terrible punishment could not wring from him an untrue confession.

The boy did not stop to reason that there was strong circumstantial evidence to justify suspicion in his direction. He felt only the rigor of a frightful chastisement for an offense of which he was guiltless. And the association of ideas was permanent; a lasting impression was left on him. The one idea which ever remained strange to him, and which he resisted in theory and practice, was that of duty. Unable to identify himself with the society in which he lived, he failed to appreciate the obligations to one's fellows which are the best part of human life.

Yet his influence for good was felt—is still being felt. It may be traced in the current political movements in France, in England and even in America. He struck out for the rights of the many against the few—against plutocracy and selfishness. He demanded that the people should rule, and that same demand is being urged throughout the civilized world today.

The wrongfully administered punishment which Jean Jacques received in the country school was not in vain.—Kansas City Star.

JUSTICE GOFF TO HEAR CASES

Named by Governor Dix for Murder and Police Graft Trials.

SCHEPPS ON HIS WAY

New York, Aug. 16.—With District Attorney Whitman out of the town for the week end and the grand jury not in session interest in the Rosenthal murder and its scope of police graft centered today in Gov. Dix's appointment of Supreme Court Justice John W. Goff to hear the cases in extraordinary session beginning Sept. 3. Justice Goff's selection at this time comes before all of the indictments in the case have been returned—Becker alone having been indicted so far for murder—but the district attorney's staff regards the return of other true bills as a foregone conclusion. They will be handed up probably early next week after the testimony of Sam Schepps has been heard. First to be placed on trial according to present plans are the gunmen. Becker's trial will likely come last.

Justice Goff is especially well qualified for a sympathetic understanding of cases involving police graft. He was counsel for the famous Lexow committee which uncovered much crookedness in the department years ago and he has also been an assistant district attorney. On the bench he presided in such well known cases as the Kennedy, Patrick and Molineaux trials, the Meyer poisoning case and the case of the notorious Sam Parks.

In what purports to be a letter to his brother, Robert, Sam Schepps is quoted here today as saying that he will "tell everything" when he reaches New York. Schepps is said to have received a letter from his brother in which the brother warned him that it was best to tell the truth. Schepps reply is quoted as follows:

"Thanks for your letter, Bob. I know things look pretty tight. I am going to save myself. I don't care who suffers. I have talked to no one here in Hot Springs and I don't say a word till I get back to New York, then I will tell Whitman everything.

THROUGH INDIANAPOLIS.

Rubin Keeping Secret Exact Route to New York With Schepps.

Indianapolis, Aug. 16.—Assistant District Attorney J. R. Rubin and party, taking Sam Schepps to New York as a material witness in the Rosenthal murder case, passed through this city early today. It was said the party would stop in New York state before going into New York city next week, but Mr. Rubin declined to say where.

Schepps was asleep in his berth, watched by detectives, during the time the train stopped in this city. Mr. Rubin said the route into New York city was to be kept secret to avoid, if possible, any interference from "outside interests." Neither he nor Schepps, he added, would make any further statement as to Shepps' part in the further investigation of the Rosenthal case.

WAS FAKING LOCKJAW.

Maron Man Flees Hospital When Police Are Mentioned.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 16.— Forest Hanley, aged 24, of Marion, who was recently found lying on the floor of a restaruant and was supposed to be suffering from lockjaw, suddenly left St. John's hospital, in this city, when physicians decided that Hanly was only feigning lockjaw. Two doctors had examined the young man and one of them told Hanley that they would turn his case over to the police. While the doctors wer in another part of the hospital Hanley dressed and ran from the building and disappeared. The doctors said he was not ill. The hospital received a letter from Dr. Jobes, of Indianapolis, who said Hanley recently imposed on a hospital in Indianapolis by feigning lockjaw for three or four days.

TELLS DRAMATIC STORY ON STAND

Mrs. Bernstein Matches Her Wits Against Attorney's Queries.

HER MEMORY BLANK

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Florence Bernstein, charged with shooting her husband to death as he lay in bed by her side, dramatically told on the witness stand of the events leading up to the killing. She pitted her wits against the sharp questioning of the state's attorney and answered his questions calmly.

"Do you know where the revolver was on the night of the killing?" she was asked.

"No sir."

"How long after you had called your husband to come into the room did he come?"

"About ten or fifteen minutes."

"Was he in his night gown then?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Bernstein then told of how her husband had struck her with a shoe as she lay in bed. After that, she said, her memory became blank. She testified that when she awoke in the morning her husband was not in the bed room. She found him lying in the bath room with a towel over his head.

She made emphatic denials yesterday that she had shot him. Six alienists are on duty to watch her every movement and expression preparatory to being called upon to testify whether she had or was still a victim of "furore transitoria," the form of insanity which her counsel explained caused her to forget what she was doing when her husband was shot and killed as he lay in bed in their home.

STRIKES PASTOR; FORCED TO QUIT

Martinsville City Marshall Resigns When Feeling Runs High.

CITY IS STIRRED UP

Martinsville, Ind., Aug. 16.—As a result of feeling aroused over his action in striking the Rev. K. Dilts, pastor of the Baptist church, while the latter was talking to a friend i nthe street last night, City Marshall Skinner tendered his resignation today to Mayor Hastings and it was accepted. Mr. Dilts says the marshal came up to him and laid his hands on his shoulders and that when he told him to "let go and go about his business" Dilts says the marshal struck him twice, but he is not certain. He was dazed by the blow and friends assisted him to a physician's office. Later he was taken to his home. Skinner refused to make any statement as to his side of the matter. He was later arrested in his room by Sheriff Marley. A large crowd followed them to the jail. Mr. Dilts has criticized the marshal frequently and this is supposed to have caused the trouble. Policeman Eoff has also tendered his resignation because of the feeling that has been created against the officer.

Miss Piel and Miss Robinson, of Huntington Valley, who were also riding in the car at the time, were thrown clear of the machine and were only slightly hurt.

COMES TO BURKE'S DEFENSE.

Mother-in-Law Talks of Man Who Fled to Escape Blackmail.

Philadelphia, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Mazie Brennen, mother-in-law of Wm. Burke, reform councilman of the Thirty-third ward, who resigned from council and left home in this city after making public a story that he was a reformed criminal who was suffering at the hands of a "blackmailer" declared today that Burke was a good son-in-law. She said he was kind to his wife and step-child, was a gentleman and that he became a councilman because the men in his district would not have it any other way.

Burke married a widowed daughter of Mrs. Brennen about four years ago. It was said at the Brennen home that Burke went away Sunday saying he was going to find a position and that they had no word from him since. Burke furnished the story of his life to a local correspondent before he left the city. He declared that a fellow convict who had served a sentence with him in the Massachusetts state prison recognized him after his election as a councilman and threatened to make public his record.

It's Back to Prison for Little Old Man Who at 70 Couldn't Resist the Fun of Counterfeiting.

GEO. K. OSBORNE, SNAPPED OUTSIDE HIS CELL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16.—The psychology of counterfeiting.

What is it? Did you ever stop to think? Can you realize it?

"Try it, try it, try it." Once let the victim begin to ponder and he is lost.

So mused George K. Osborne, 70, veteran of the civil war, confessed counterfeiter, who has served two prison terms and who now faces a third as the result of his recent arrest.

"It's so easy," is the way the little old man explains his return to the practice of counterfeiting. "Then, it's fun to 'shove the stuff'—it's exciting, you know. When I was a little shaver in school a friend of mine gave me some bad money to pass off just for fun. I did it. He's responsible for all my trouble ever since. I can't help but feel resentful toward him sometimes."

The little old man's story is of the lure of "making" money—of the unconquerable fascination of casting imitation dimes, dollars and glittering "yellow boys."

"It's so easy."

Secret service agents the other day raided the veteran's little house and dug up his implements from beneath rose bushes, walls and behind heaps of rubbish. For the third time Osborne faces the penitentiary. President Grover Cleveland pardoned him after he had done several years in Joliet. After that he did a long term in Auburn.

"When I was a young man I had a machine shop and employed twenty-five mechanics," said Osborne, as he waited to be arraigned before the United States commissioner. "That was a long time ago. Even then I was making counterfeit money. Nobody ever taught me how; it was just born in me, I guess.

"Why," with a little note of pride in his voice, "I could make anything in this room. But it's easier to make that money than anything else. Then, when you hand it out and the other fellow takes it and can't tell it from the real thing Uncle Sam makes—well, you can take some pride in your work.

"Undoubtedly I'll have to plead guilty when they bring me up in court. I don't like to tell you the inventions I'm working on right now; it might hurt me after I get out and try to promote them. One's an areoplane engine, though, that will solve the problem of aviation. Maybe they'll give me some time to work on that while I'm in."

A long white envelope was sticking out of the old man's inside pocket.

"No, no, you can't see that," he said eagerly, as if anxious to show it. "That would tell the whole story." He buttoned up the shiny black alpaca coat, patting the envelope nervously.

"I had $100,000 once; made it in machinery. It was good money, too, made on the level. Maybe you say I was foolish to go ahead and 'coin' then, but—well, it was too easy not to. It was easy to use the bad money and save the good. They looked just alike, anyway. So I 'shoved the queer,' as they say. I used to wake up in the night and plan schemes to make the coins look old or new, just according to the dates I put on them. That was easy, too.

"Even in the war I used to plan and fidget to get back to the old game. I was honorably discharged three times between '6 land '65," he continued, proudly. "Every time I enlisted again in a different service, so I was infantryman, artilleryman and cavalryman.

"Well, as the time went on I thought maybe I'd outgrow that weakness, but somehow I didn't. I got to working on these inventions and my pension wasn't enough to pay expenses, so I just rigged up a little outfit and went to work. It was easy, and in a little while I had all the money I needed to work on the inventions. Just quarters at first, then they took them in so easy I passed over halves and even dollars occasionally. It looked just like the real, and was just as good, anyway.

"It won't do any good to lock me up for a long time. I tell you, though, it may keep me away from that fascination, that drawing, until I can break myself of it. When I come out I'll have the engine ready."

"Osborne!" yelled the United States marshal at the door. "They're ready for you now!"

He waved his hand and followed the officer from the barred room, as he had followed the flag into many a deathtrap in '61 and '65.

But counterfeiters' terms are long and at 70 one is an old, old man.

CHRISTIANS DIE FROM TORTURES

The Attitude of Corean Court Told in Letters to Rev. A. J. Brown.

THREE WERE KILLED

New York, Aug. 16.—Letters recently received from Corea by the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, chairman of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, describing the progress of the trial of the 100 Corean Christians accused of capital offenses, present vivid narratives of the grossly insulting and abusive attitude of the court itself toward the defendants.

One of Dr. Brown's informants, writing from Seoul under date of July 4, said:

"The very evident desire of the court to discredit the foreigners without making any definite charges which can be taken up and disproved, and also to injure the reputation of the church, comes out frequently. For instance, this afternoon they succeeded in tripping one of the pastors in a slight verbal inaccuracy while he was under cross-examination. The judge immediately turned upon him savagely, calling him 'a Jesus doctrine man.' Then he told him to 'go on,' and peremptorily dismissed him from the witness stand.

"As the judge thus scornfully reviled the defendants the whole bench of judges joined heartily in sarcastic laughter at the expense of the Christian pastor, including General Akashi, who sits on the platform behind the judges most of the time. Such incidents serve to illustrate the unjudicial and hostile attitude of the court."

It is to General Akashi, the chief of the military police, that the American and Corean Christians attribute the ferocity of the persecution and the merciless torture many of their leading men have been subjected to. It is to him they attribute the selection of the nine men for banishment, against whom the police were admittedly unable to construct any case sufficiently plausible to take into court. One of these was the principal lawyer retained for the defense of the men who are on trial for their lives. Another of the exiles was a business man of large interests in Corea and Manchuria. He was summarily sent away to an island penal colony without opportunity to consult with his friends or business associates.

Three Die From Tortures.

According to Dr. Brown's informant, the defendants, who have now been remanded to prison to await the beginning of their new trial next month, number 125. There are, in addition to these, the nine who have been exiled without trial. Three have died while under arrest, succumbing, as their friends believe, to the physical tortures to which they were subjected in the effort to make them incriminate themselves and others falsely, and about twenty of those arrested within the year or more since the discovery of the alleged plot against the life of Governor General Terauchi have been released.

Of the defendants arraigned in court eighty-seven were Presbyterians, among whom were five pastors, six elders, one elder elect, ten leaders, eight deacons, forty-two unofficial church members, thirteen catechumens and three unenrolled adherents of the church. With a single exception all were from either Ping Yang or Syen Chun, the centers of the Presbyterian and Methodist mission interests. In the group of prisoners on trial were also six Methodists and two Congregationalists. The thirty remaining defendants were not avowed Christians.

"Although more than seventy prisoners have been examined," the letter continues, "not one has been confronted by a single piece of what we would call real evidence to show that he had really conspired against the governor general's life. Such evidence as has been produced is admittedly the 'evidence' collected by the police department in Seoul, which means that it consists wholly of statements wrung from the defendant, or some other prisoner, under torture. In very many cases, too, the prisoners say the statements were made entirely by the examiners, and that they, the victims, when they were half conscious or crazed with pain, merely assented with a simple 'yes.'

Counsel Cannot Consult With Clients.

"Although the trial is called a public one, the lawyers for the defense are not allowed to confer with their clients in court at all, and can ask them questions in court only through the judge and at the option of the judge.

"And this is the kind of law under which we Americans will have to live in less than two weeks, when the old treaty goes out of existence."

That is the bitter comment with which the letter closes. Until July 17 last Americans in Corea enjoyed the so-called "extra territorial" right of being tried on any criminal complaint before their own consuls as judges. Since that date, however, by the consent of the United States government, that right had been abrogated and Americans in Corea are now subject to trial by the regular Japanese courts. Commenting upon that fact, this week's issue of the Continent, the national journal of the Presbyterian church, says:

"Naturally the procedure of justice in regard to the accused Coreans does not encourage foreigners to feel confidence in this new jurisdiction to which they have become subject—especially since they have seen the workings of the statute called the 'peace preservation law,' which allows the police to expel from the country whomsoever they choose, without recourse to any court for defense of personal rights."

HAY FEVER ILLS QUICKLY RELIEVED

With a Cleansing, Healing Antiseptic Cream. Stops Sneezing Instantly.

Many people suppose there is no cure for Hay Fever and think, once one has had an attack, they must suffer every summer from haying time until frost comes. Some of the more fortunate seek relief in cooler climate, but thousands suffer at home, and often make their condition worse by using strong snuffs, powders and sprays.

There is no need of your being a victim of this disease any longer, and you don't have to run away to escape it either. Just get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, place a little in the nostrils, draw the pleasant, aromatic fumes back into the head and see how quickly you will get relief.

It opens up the air passages almost instantly, stops the sneezing, running at the nose and weeping. Furthermore, it doesn't simply give you temporary relief, but it heals and strengthens the sensitive membrane lining of the nose and throat, and restores it to normal, healthy condition, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble.

All druggists sell and recommend it. Get a bottle today. If you are not satisfied after fair trial, your druggist will give you back every cent you paid for it. Agents, Meyer Bros. Co.

An Everyday View of the Next Sunday School Lesson

By RICHARD S. HOLMES, in The Continent.

Lesson for August 18, 1912.—Lesson Text, Mark 5:21:43. Golden Text, Mark 5:41: And taking the child by the hand, he saith unto her, Talitha cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, Arise.

The stay on the east side of the Sea of Galilee was brief. Jesus went back across the sea (v. 21.) The knowledge of his going and coming could not be kept from the people. No sooner was the vicinity of Capernaum reached than the crowds gathered again. Many came from curiosity alone. But in the throng there was one who was not curious. He had a real trouble, and as soon as he could get near Jesus he fell at his feet (v. 22.) He was a man of importance, Jairus by name, a ruler of the synagogue. But position and influence could not drive the death angel from his house. Jarius told his grief. He prayed for one definite thing (v. 23.) The prayer was a confession of faith in Christ.

Woman, Sure of Omnipotence of Jesus, Knew Naught of His Omniscience.

As Jesus moved with the crowd toward the house of Jairus, another person with another thought was striving to approach him. This person was a timid woman. She asked nothing, did not wish to show herself at all and would never have thought of asking him to lay his hands upon her. She merely wanted to touch him; no, not him, but the border of his outer garment, in fullness of faith. She was confident an unseen, unknown touch would redeem her from her curse. She did not mean to have anyone, not even Jesus, know what she had done. But though she knew what he could do, she did not know him. She was sure of his omnipotence, but had taken no thought as to his omniscience. How she must have been startled by his question, "Who touched my clothes?"

"What a question!" said his disciples. "Everybody is touching you, but no one in particular has done it." (v. 31.) "Yes; someone in particular has," Jesus answered. "I perceive that power has gone forth from me" (Luke 8:46.) Then he began to search for the woman. Of course her confession followed, and then came the sweetest word she had ever heard—"Thy faith hath made thee whole" (v. 34.)

In the meantime had the father been impatient of the delay? We should doubtless have been. We should have said, "What is that woman stopping him for? Why doesn't he come on? Does he not know my daughter will die?"

And his daughter did die before they reached his home (v. 34.) Jairus must have felt all the foundations slipping from beneath his feet. His faith had not yet risen high enough to believe. "He can give her new life." He had that yet to learn.

Jesus, Hearing of Death of Jairus' Daughter, Reassures Father.

Never beat a heart more compassionate for our poor humanity than the heart of Jesus Christ. Can you not imagine what Jesus was thinking? He heard the message brought by the servants. Then he spoke aloud: "Fear not, only believe" (v. 36.)

Then Jesus dispersed the crowd. He would never allow all of his apostles to enter into the house of Jairus. Having sent the throng away, Jesus and the father and the three apostles hurried to the house (v. 37.) The scene there was dramatic. The Oriental ceremonies were begun. There was tumult, noisy weeping by professional mourners. Jesus was roused to stern rebuke. "Be still," he said. "The girl is not dead, but asleep" (vs. 38-39.)

The story is soon told. Six persons entered the room where the dead girl lay. One of them was the Master of life. What a scene! The Christ was holding the hand of the girl. He was speaking. The witnesses heard but few words. "Damsel, I say unto thee, Arise." Then she arose. Death was once more vanquished (vs. 40-42.)

Were there other homes in which one was dead? Would not this miracle be published through the streets? Would not many more come beseeching him to go and raise their dead? "Tell no one," he commanded. "I will not have such publicity. My mission is to bring souls out of sin, and not bodies out of death" (v 43.)

Here are two types of character in full action. Jairus came intothis crowd and openly confessed his faith in Christ's power; the woman went into the crowd cautiously, trying to keep herself unnoticed. Jairus told in the hearing of everyone what was the burden of his soul; the woman uttered not a single word, and would not have told anyone, not even Jesus, what was her desire. Jairus had been saying to himself, "If he will touch my daughter she will be cured;" the woman had said to herself "If I can just touch the fringe of his robe I shall be healed."

In one thing Jairus and the woman were alike. They both knew exactly what they wanted, and both because of faith received the exact thing they wanted.

Some Suggestive Thoughts Gleaned From the Two Lesson Stories.

Great straits bring one to great self-renunciation.

Faith often makes one bold. The ruler was not ashamed to have the multitude see him kneel at the feet of Jesus and plead for his daughter's life.

Faith in Christ gives hope even where there seems to be no room for hope. It makes one persistent in efforts to overcome obstacles. It gives power to obtain spiritual blessings which without it cannot possibly be obtained. It gives courage to confess his name before the whole world. It enables one to trust still, even after all earthly hope has fled.

ATTACKED BY BULL AT NIGHT.

Man Has Terrifying Experience While Driving Along Road.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 16.—While driving along the road near the foot of the mountains below Pen-Mar at night James Rock, of Tommstown, was attacked by an angry bull, the animal charging at the horse and striking it with such force as to knock the rix feet back. Fortunately the bull had been dehorned and the horse was not injured. In an effort to evade the savage attack of the bull the horse finally broke the harness and got away. Rock jumped from the buggy to protect the horse, when the bull charged him and he was knocked between the buggy and one of the wheels, where the bull kept him by repeated charges. Rock shielded himself behind the wheel and belabored the bull with the butt end of the whip until the whip was broken to pieces. Rock, after some trouble, got an old pistol from under the buggy seat and fired three times at the bull's head. After the third shot the weapon refused to work, but the bull, badly wounded, gave up the fight and ran away. The encounter lasted twenty minutes and Rock was nearly exhausted.

"Were all medicines as meritorious as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the world would be much better off and the percentage of suffering greatly decreased," writes Lindsey Scott, of Temple, Ind. For sale by all dealers.

OVER 7,000 histories of the Civil War—and not one so good as this. Thousands upon thousands of sketches and paintings have been made to illustrate these 7,000 histories, yet they give no reflection of the war so vivid, so accurate, so real, so living, as do the photographs in this one history.

Previous accounts of the Civil War are full of contradictions, disagreements. For no matter how fair-minded a man may be, his views are liable to personal or party color. The most keen-witted and observant of men is apt to overlook something; the most reliable memory is apt to forget something. But the camera is nothing but fair; it overlooks nothing, and it cannot forget.

The discovery of the hundreds of Brady War Photographs, hidden for many years in an old New York attic, now reproduced and distributed by this paper, has brought to the world a mighty message of the truth of that great conflict between the Blue and the Gray.

These thrilling pictures tell more clearly than a whole library of statistical works, the dangers and uncertainties from which our nation was saved by the fight to a finish in '65—and you owe it to yourself and to your children to secure every one of the 16 Sections of these Long-Lost

Brady War Photographs

Illustrating Elson's Newly Written History of the Civil War

In Sixteen Superb Sections One Each Week for Only . . . 10c

Section 12—Now Ready

Contains a Complete Thrilling Narrative of the Bloody Angle at Spotsylvania

In this battle the opposing forces fought like demons for twenty hours. Over the intrenchments they shot, stabbed and slashed at each other with the fury of fiends fresh from hell. In the terrible musket fire trees, a foot and a half in diameter, were cut down, and still the contestants held on, the Confederates unable to drive the Federals, the Federals unable to drive the Confederates.

The pity of it all was manifested by the shocking scene on that battlefield the next day. Piles of dead lay around the veritable "Hell's Hole" on both sides of the intrenchments, four layers deep in some places, shattered and torn by bullets and hoofs and clubbed muskets, while beneath the layers of dead there could be seen the quivering limbs of those who still lived. Besides the complete account of the battle of Spotsylvania Court House, Section 12 also contains the story of

Grant's Attack and Repulse at Cold Harbor Which Cost 10,000 Men in Twenty Minutes

This is the conflict of which Gen. Grant says: "It is the only battle I ever fought that I would not fight over again under the circumstances." Don't fail to secure this great section and read the story of these two battles that, when the sun set on the last day, the only fruits of the struggle was some 30,000 dead and wounded Union soldiers.

The War-Time Photographs

In this section show the country over which these bloody conflicts took place and the actors in the great struggle. All of the pictures are unusually rare and interesting and are further vitalized by a detailed and authentic description of scenes and persons represented. A Colored Frontispiece—"The Battle of Spotsylvania"—Ready for Framing

If you want to go clear through the Civil War from scene to scene and behold everything that transpired in the first and last great war that was ever caught by the camera, lose no time but subscribe for this wonderful work at once.

These pictures are the only war-time photographs which any government ever allowed to be taken. The war correspondent today has become virtually a war prisoner. Suspected as a possible spy, he is kept away from headquarters, from the firing line, from any scene that might betray the losses suffered, the location of forts, the extent of earthworks.

But in '61, Brady and his daring assistants penetrated to the very storm centers. There was no "censor," no orders restricting photographers, no suspicion fifty years ago. Why should there be? The camera was thought a toy. Photo-engraving had not been dreamed of. So in these 16 Sections of "The Civil War Through the Camera" you see

The Only Great War Ever Photographed

—and the only one it will always remain. The Civil War was also the last grand scale fighting that was picturesque, personal, hand-to-hand. Think of it! In '61 no general firing was done beyond 300 yards. Brady and his followers did what will never be done again. They crept close to the trenches and the earthworks and photographed a great war in progress.

Modern field guns are deadly at three miles—often while the cannoneers are entirely out of sight. But in "The Civil War Through the Camera" is picture after picture taken while the enemy was not a mile away—cannoneers actually working their guns under fire, in sight of ramparts and buildings sheltering hostile forces.

Each section of this wonderful photographic history is complete as a novel—and the full set of sixteen form a history of the war such as has never before been published.

Beginning with the opening gun of the great war, these sixteen sections pass on through the fight along the Mississippi, the struggle for Richmond, the rise of Lee, the opening of the Mississippi, the crisis of Gettysburg, the bitter struggle along the Tennessee, the coming of Grant—and sweeps on to the surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

Ten cents to cover necessary expenses such as cost of material, handling, clerk hire, etc., will bring you a copy of Section 12. By Mail, 14c.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The series naturally begins with Bull Run, that first great encounter of armed troops of the North and South. If you haven't received this Section, or any of the others that follow it, we will supply you with either or all of the first twelve Sections for 10 cents if you act promptly and order NOW.

A really noteworthy work. The photographs thus collected are not only of a permanent value, but will have a steady increasing value for the historian as time elapses.

A SOFT-HEARTED BURGLAR

WHEN GREEK MEETS GREEK A HARD LUCK STORY GETS THE PLUNDER

By E. V. COTTMAN

"We will drink to your better employment and my better fortune."

JERRY DEEMS, pickpocket and second-story man, paused a moment in his delicate work of removing a piece of glass from the dining room window in one of the fashionable houses on Riverside Drive. He listened carefully, but could not hear a sound. Outside the world lay peaceful and quiet, inside all was as silent as the tomb. Reassured by the favorable conditions, Jerry cautiously continued his operations, and in a few seconds a semi-circular piece was lifted out of the pane, a cautious hand slipped through and sprung the catch, and Jerry's portly form struggled through the open window.

Time was when he could slip through a window as lightly as the best of them, but several lengthy periods of enforced idleness "up the river" had rendered him somewhat corpulent, and his waist-line had not the small measure of former years.

It was long after midnight, and he was tired. This was not the first house Jerry had visited that night. He had made a few calls in another part of the city with satisfactory results, and by all means should now have been safely making for his quarters. But Jerry possessed a trait that many of us have—that of not letting well enough alone. This he soon realized, for when he straightened up to get his bearings, the light was suddenly flashed on, and he found himself looking into the steely mouth of a six-shooter, in the hands of a tall, slender woman.

"Well, I'll be—" he exclaimed, and sat down heavily in a chair that happened to be near the window.

"Surprised, are you?" asked a cool, mocking voice. "I think I am the one to be surprised. My visitors do not usually enter through the window."

She stood there, calm and smiling, holding the pistol in a way that plainly showed that she knew how to use it. She was dressed in a loose pink bath-robe, and had a lace scarf twisted about her head.

"Don't move," she said. "Now put your hands on the table." Jerry did so, and she looked him over scornfully with her bright eyes.

"W'y, mum," said Jerry in a sheepish tone, "I'm yer most ... You certainly ... to be so ... a ... silence ... I'm ... eyes ... as he ... the distance from the chair to the window.

"I would not try that if I were you," she said. "I mean business, and I'll shoot at your first move."

"All right, lady, all right," said Jerry. "Sing out and let's git it over. It's me for the pen, I guess."

"Not so fast," she answered. "I've always wanted to meet a real, live burglar, and now that I've got my wish I want to ask you a few questions."

"Well, start the ball rollin'," said Jerry, who was getting disgusted with the whole affair. "Does you want to know what church I goes to, or would you like to know if I'm married or single?"

The lady smiled. "Neither," she said, "but I would like to know why an able-bodied man like you can't find something better to do than sneaking into other people's houses in the night? Isn't there plenty of work for a man to do that is honest and respectable?

"Do you mean to say that you can't make a living without taking what doesn't belong to you? Why can't you drive a wagon, or work in a mill, or do something to earn an honest living?"

Jerry squirmed uneasily in his chair. "Cut it out, mum," he said, raising a wrathful pair of eyes to hers. "Cut it out! I didn't come out tonight to listen to a sermon on honesty. If you're goin' to call de cops, do it, an' hold yer jaw, fer I ain't in no humor just about now to be guyed."

"But you haven't answered me," persisted the lady. "Why don't you work—"

"Work!" broke in Jerry. "You're a perty dame to be talkin' about work. Have you ever worked in yer life? What do you know 'bout work? "Have you ever been hungry or slept in the street? Have you ever tried ter git er job that paid livin' wages? Of course you ain't. It's fine ter talk when yer pocket's full o' money, an' yer bank account's a mile long! What d'you know about bein' broke!"

"I know more about it than you think," she returned, letting a little warmth creep into her dark eyes. "For that is precisely the position I find myself in at present."

"You broke!" exclaimed Jerry incredulously, throwing his eyes around the richly furnished room. "You broke! Livin' in this house! Look at de silver over there. Pshaw! What yer givin' me?"

"Nothing but the truth. We are ruined. My husband's fortune is swept away, this house is mortgaged, my ... even my very dresses—have been sold. It is only a question of a few hours when I'll be out in the ... with a penny.

"The silver on the sideboard is the only thing that is left, and it will go tomorrow. It wouldn't be here now, but for the monograms. So, you see, I know a little about trouble myself."

"Is what yer givin' me on the level, lady?" asked Jerry as she closed her eyes wearily for a moment.

"It certainly is," she replied. "Can't you see how hard it is for me? One can never judge by appearances. A rich dress does not always cover a light heart, and a smile often hides a tear. I suppose that there are many people who have envied me, never dreaming that I have been living on the brink of ruin for months.

"The end has come sooner than I expected. Tomorrow will be Easter Sunday. I have forgotten that it was so near," passing a slender hand wearily across her face.

"Well," with a bitter laugh, "my Easter gown won't create a furore tomorrow.

"Come," she said, rousing herself and turning to Jerry, "it is time you were off."

He opened his eyes in astonishment. "You don't mean ter let me go?" he asked.

"Certainly," she answered with a faint smile. "I wouldn't turn a dog over to the police on Easter Eve. Come, be quick! It will soon be morning, and daylight will overtake you."

Jerry looked at her in a perplexed manner. "Say, lady," he said in a voice shaking with feeling, "I'm sure sorry yer up against it."

"Thanks for your sympathy," she said gratefully. "And now, if you will pass me that decanter and those goblets behind you on the sideboard, we will drink to your better employment and my better fortune."

"Thank you," as he filled the heavily chased cup and handed it to her. She raised it to her lips and said, "To your future health and prosperity."

"Same to you," warmly responded Jerry, smacking his lips and setting the goblet on the table. She made a quick gesture with her hand.

"Take it with you as a souvenir of our meeting," she said graciously.

"T'anks, lady," said Jerry, stowing it away in his pocket.

Then he added:

"Since you was so white to a fellow, I'd like to give you a souverine meself. Yer see," taking a small, carefully wrapped bundle from his pocket and opening it, "I didn't meet with no setbacks tonight before I struck this crib, and you can see fer yerself," revealing a number of jeweled rings, pins, necklaces and bracelets to her astonished vision, "so if you will kindly accept this necklace," holding up a beautiful string of diamonds and emeralds, "I'd be mighty proud ter give it ter you."

"Why—I don't like—" she gasped.

"Oh, take it, take it," urged Jerry, closing up the bundle and stuffing it back into his pocket. "Easy come, easy go, yer know.

"Well, so long, and good luck," he whispered, as he swung himself softly from the window onto the roof and disappeared.

Several minutes passed. The lady stood holding the necklace in her hand, watching the light flash and scintillate on the gleaming stones. She pursed up her lips and gave a low whistle.

"What a beauty!" she cried. "Worth five thousand dollars at least! Oh, the fool, the fool!"

Slowly she unwound the lace scarf from a sleek, black head, closely cropped, and slipped out of the enveloping folds of the pink bath-robe, standing revealed as a young man, lithe and slender.

"Luckily for me I came through the bathroom and heard him first," he said to himself, bringing up a dark lantern and a black mask from somewhere under the table. With one hand on the electric-button he looked cautiously about, then turned out the light, climbed softly through the window, and was gone in the night.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 16.—Wheat traders leaned today to the bull side. Trading was light with cash demand and rainy weather in the northwest moving factors. The opening was steady with December 92¾@92¾c. That option speedily went to 93⅛@93¼c on a fair demand and rested on high level.

Unsettled weather, a good cash demand and lighter receipts in the principal markets kept values firm. The close was strong with December ¾c higher at 93½c.

September corn forged slightly ahead of distant months on fears of wet weather delay to immediate down-state movement. September started at 70c and added ¾c, resting at the top. December moved up to 54¾c.

Some short coverings and a good demand led to further upturns. December finished ⅝@¾c higher at 54⅞@55c.

Covering by shorts and rainy weather delay of arrivals made oats strong. December opened at 32¾c to 33c.

Good demand for provisions gave firmness to the entire list. October products: Pork, $18.27½; lard, $11.07½, and ribs, $10.95.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Aug. 16.—Opening prices of stocks today indicated a resumption of yesterday's late selling. The prominent issues were down from minor to material fractions with a 2-point decline in Canadian Pacific. The only issues of importance to manifest any strength were Great Northern Ore Certificates and Ontario & Western.

Trading on the exchange today was almost the dullest of the week with a tendency toward reaction. Leading issues ruled under yesterday's final quotations in the first hour, but made some recovery toward noon. Bonds were easy.

The market closed irregular. Selling of the active list caused general recessions to lowest prices in the last hour, but something of a rally came in the final dealings. Steel and Union Pacific showing support. American Tobacco and General Chemical were especially weak, with losses of 8 and 7 points, respectively.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

New York, Aug. 16.—Money on call, steady at 2¾@2¾ per cent; ruling rate, 2¾ per cent; closing bid, 2¾ per cent; offered at 2¾ per cent.

Commercial bills, $4.83¾.
Bar silver, 63c.

NERVY BANDIT WORKS ALONE.

Single Handed He Holds Up Express Car and Gets $3,000.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 16.—A lone masked train robber boarded a Southern train, No. 13, Spartanburg to Asheville, at 10:30 last night, as it was leaving Baltimore, three miles from this city and covering Express Messenger E. F. Carr with a revolver and secured a package containing $3,000 in bills. The robber then bound Carr's hands and locked him in the rifled express chest.

It is supposed that the robber left the train as it slowed up for the Asheville yards. When the train arrived at the Asheville station express employes found Carr in the chest. The messenger was unable to give a description of his assailant, saying that the man was completely masked.

The alarm was given at Asheville and several policemen were sent toward Biltmore on a special train. Other members of the force boarded a regular train leaving Asheville at 10:50. It was thought that the robber might have attempted to escape on this train.

THE COURTS.

Myrtle Miller wants a divorce from Patrick Miller because, she charges, that he called her bad names, spent his money for drink and didn't provide for her. Phil B. Colerick filed the suit.

Hattie Baughman has entered suit to recover $5,000 from Jacob W. and Mary Swaidner, alleging the money is due her for wages.

Jefferson Willoughby says he was permanently disabled by injuries received while working as a sawyer for the Noble Machine company and he asks $3,000 damages.

A new trial has been granted by Judge S. L. Morris in the suit in which the estate of Henry Mitchell, formerly of Huntington, recovered a verdict for $5,000 against the Erie Railroad company.

Under wills offered for probate John Nieman left all his property to his wife, as did Joseph E. Fox. Fred Nahrwald left his property to his daughter, Louise, with the provision that she pay $300 each to his sons, Frederick, Henry, Otto and Gustave, and $150 each to his grandchildren.

Harrie Armstrong was granted a divorce in the superior court from George P. Arms.

PROVED A MAN OF HIS WORD

Broker, True to Promise, Remembered Old Apple Woman in His Day of Rejoicing.

"Yes, I has me reg'lar customers," said the old apple woman at a Wall street corner as she polished an apple, "and now and then I has one that lets me share in his good luck. When industrials was on the kite, along comes a broker who says:

"'Good mornin' to ye, Aunt Sally, and how's apples sellin' today?"

"'Two fer five, yer highness,' says I, 'which is cheap fer apples at this season o' the year.'

"'That's true,' says he, 'and I'll take along a couple fer luck. I'm in industrials to make or lose a hundred thousand. If I make, I'll remember ye.'

"'Gord bless ye!' I says, as I gives the apples an extra polish and hands them over. It was three days before I sees him ag'in. Then he stops at me stand wid a look uv benevolence on his face, and money in his hand, and says:

"Aunt Sally, yer polished apples brought me luck, and I'm a man av me word. I cleared a hundred thousand that day.'

"'Gord be praised, yer worship!'

"'And ye'll please accept this as a little token av love and esteem from yer true friend.'

"And wid that the dear, good-hearted man hands me a nickel and walks away wid the benevolence creeping down his shirt collar. And I was so affected that a boy stole two av me biggest apples whilst the tears was in me eyes. My husband says it ought to have been a dime at least. But, God bless ye, sir, that broker could have sold out his business and moved to Boston and dodged me altogether, ye know."

MORE WORK FOR THE SEXTON

Church Authority Introduced to a Custom He Hopes Will Not Become Universal.

"Long ago I got used to receiving mail which strangers in town had had directed in our care," said the sexton, "but last Saturday night was the first time this old church was ever used as a clearing house for dry goods. An out-of-town woman ordered a hat sent up here. She dropped in about 4 o'clock and told me it was coming.

"'I don't know just where I shall stay tonight,' she said, 'but I do know that I am coming here to church tomorrow morning, so I told the milliner to deliver my hat here. I'll come to church early and put the hat on back here in the chapel, if you don't mind.'

"If I didn't mind! What earthly difference did it make whether I minded or not? Instructions had been given for the delivery of the hat, the woman said she couldn't be seen inside the church without it; she expected to worship with us the next day, so what could I do but receive the hat?

"I hope, however, that the custom of having merchandise for the congregation delivered here will not become widespread."

Poetic Justice in France.

The following is a case of poetic justice as meted out in France:

A well-known Parisian architect was sitting in his office when he heard a knock at the door. As he wished to be alone, he took no notice of the knock but went on with his work. A few minutes later he heard a key moving in the lock. Not doubting that his visitor was a burglar, the architect armed himself with a revolver and quietly hid behind some curtains. Presently the thief entered and proceeded to rifle the place. Then suddenly he started and grew pale. In a mirror he had seen a revolver leveled at his head from behind the curtains.

"Open the window," ordered the architect, and shout 'Police!'"

The burglar had no alternative but to obey, and so summoned the officer by whom he was to be arrested.

Run a Walking Stick Farm.

Of the many curious farms that have been established in our peaceful countryside, surely a walking-stick farm is the most curious, relates London Answers.

As a matter of fact, however, there is at least one such establishment, a flourishing concern, to be found in the depths of Surrey. Instead of the corn fields, pasture land and root crops usually expected on a farm, the walking-stick acres present the appearance of long, neat rows of tiny sapling trees, some four years old, others younger.

Quite a forest of walking sticks may naturally be produced in four years, but the handle occasions some delay. To obtain a right-angled handle, the growth is pegged down along the ground and from this the sapling shoots vertically upwards.

Conveniences in New House.

Where a new house is under consideration these practical suggestions for convenience and comfort may be embodied: Smooth mouldings and plain finishings in woodwork to avoid lodgment for dust; curves instead of angles where walls and ceiling and walls and floor join, also curved corners in rooms; the ironing board hinged to the wall, with drop support; a built-in cupboard for mops, brooms and carpet sweeper; electric lights in cupboards; secret drawers for silver or other valuables; built in bookcases, sideboards and window seats, with every possible empty recess used for drawer space.

Vacant Rooms? Don't Worry

If you have not found a tenant for your room, there's no use despairing and "publishing" the fact all over in scare headlines.

"There are just as good tenants in the city as ever been gotten."

The best way to reach them is to place your "For Rent" ad. in the paper that the tenants read. In Fort Wayne nearly everyone takes The Sentinel and reads Sentinel want ads.

Vordermark and Attorney J. M. Barrett, are at Lafayette today for a business meeting and it is understood they are to have a conference with the officials of that city.

The visit to Lafayette at this time, after Mr. Jones made a flying trip from the east, is said to be the result of action taken Wednesday night by the board of public works of Lafayette, which body threatens to begin suit to annul the franchise of the traction company if much needed improvements are not forthcoming in the city lines.

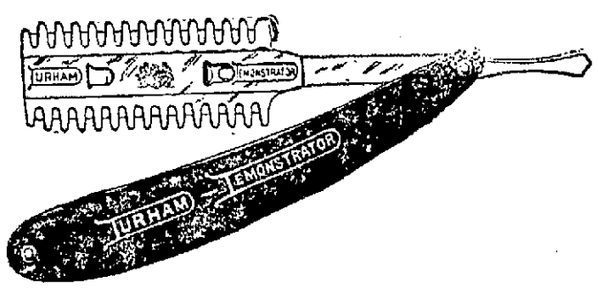
A Big Bargain for Men Who Shave

A Durham-Duplex Demonstrator RAZOR 35c



Saturday we place on sale 500 of these razors at this extremely low price. Be sure to get this while you can, because it is not always that we can offer it, and this supply may not last long.

DURHAM-DUPLEX RAZOR

This Razor offers the man who has never shaved himself an opportunity to start in right. It is built like the old-fashioned razor, thereby insuring the proper stroke, and with it, it has the safety feature.

A NEW BLADE WHEN YOU WANT IT

You possibly have often noticed a barber using two or three different razors while he is shaving you. You would have to buy three razors to do this, but if you have a Durham Duplex you can have at hand at all times any number of new blades.

SEASONABLE RECIPES.
MAUD MULLER'S ANGEL FOOD.
MAUD MULLER ON A SUMMER DAY BAKED A CAKE IN A BRAND NEW WAY; AND WHEN SHE HAD IT DONE SHE STOOD AND CALLED IT MAUDIE'S ANGEL FOOD. JUST HOW SHE MADE THIS CAKE I'LL TELL: SHE TOOK A CLAPPER OF AN OLD COW BELL, A PAIR OF SKIS AND AN OPERA SHAWL; A SHEEPSKIN COAT AND A RUBBER BALL. SHE PLACED IT ALL IN A RED-HOT PAN, AND COOLED IT OFF WITH A PALM LEAF FAN. THEN IN THE CAKE SOME SHOE-STRINGS PLACED WITH A BAR OF SOAP AND A CAN OF PASTE; AND STIRRED IT UP WITH A CENTER POLE AND WASHED ITS FACE WITH A LUMP OF COAL. JUST AS SHE FINISHED WITH GREAT ECLAT THE JUDGE DROPPED IN FOR A FRIENDLY CHAT, AND SEEING THE CAKE CRIED: "I DECLARE I'M JUST AS HUNGRY AS AN OLD HE BEAR!" ALAS, FOR THE JUDGE! NOW THE WILD WINDS RAVE AND WAFT THE GRASS ON HIS NEW MADE GRAVE OF ALL SAD THINGS! MAUDIE'S HEART IS BROKE, SINCE SHE CAUSED THE POOR OLD JUDGE TO CROAK.
